

POW Release Accord Made

Senior American Officials Won't Disclose Substance

... Initial Group To Number Around 30

AFTERMATH OF CRASH IN ALAMEDA SHOWN

Firemen are digging into the rubble of an apartment house in Alameda, Calif., searching for victims. Seven bodies had been recovered as of Thursday afternoon. The apartment house was destroyed and others in the background were badly damaged when a Navy A7 Corsair fighter plane crashed into the structure. Alameda is a suburb of Oakland and is on an island in San Francisco Bay. (More on Page 3.)

Saigon (AP) — The United States and North Vietnam have concluded an agreement on the date, sites and number of American prisoners to be released in the first group, senior American officials disclosed Thursday night.

These officials, who have access to terms of the agreement, would not disclose its substance. But they indicated the release will come sometime between Saturday and Monday, and that the initial group to be freed in South Vietnam will number about 30.

Asked why the American prisoners are not being released immediately if an agreement has been concluded, one official replied: "What makes you think the other side had any intention of doing anything until the last minute?"

Disputes In JMC

President Nguyen Van Thieu indicated during an impromptu news conference Thursday that there have been disputes in the four-party Joint Military Commission over the number of Vietnam prisoners to be freed and the timing of their release. But American officials said any such disputes concern Vietnamese prisoners and do not involve Americans.

The Americans noted that the Communists side has agreed to a date apparently within the time frame laid down by U. S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

Kissinger has said the United States expects American prisoners to be released at two-week intervals in roughly equal installments from the signing of the agreement until the 60-day deadline for U. S. troop withdrawal and prisoner repatriation, which is March 28.

Under Kissinger's timetable, which is not written into the agreement or any of its protocols, the first group of American prisoners should be released around Sunday, since that marks expiration of the first two-week interval since Paris Jan. 27.

27 POWs At An Loc

Pentagon sources said Wednesday night in Washington that 27 American prisoners held in jungle camps in the South will be released Sunday near An Loc.

An Loc is a provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon and 10 miles from the Cambodian border. One of the war's bloodiest and most sustained battles was fought there last summer.

Indications from the Pentagon sources were that the first POW release from North Vietnam might coincide with Kissinger's four-day visit to Hanoi.

Kissinger, President Nixon's foreign policy adviser, arrived in Bangkok Thursday night on his way to Hanoi and Peking. He leaves Friday night for Vientiane and cease-fire talks with Laotian leaders before flying to Hanoi Saturday for four days of conferences with North Vietnamese leaders on postwar relations and U. S. aid.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Thursday in Washington the United States expects a Laos cease-fire soon and a withdrawal of all foreign troops from the landlocked country neighboring Vietnam.

562 Identified

North Vietnam has identified 562 U. S. servicemen as alive in prison camps and 55 who died in captivity. Of the 562 identified as alive, 456 are in the North, 99 in South Vietnam and seven in Laos. In addition, the Communists also list 27 American civilians as captured in South Vietnam, some of them State Department officials.

The latest communiqué released by the Saigon military command claimed 4,774 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops have been killed in fighting since the cease-fire became effective. South Vietnamese military losses were reported as 794 troops killed, 3,350 wounded and 820 missing. In addition, at least 30 civilians have been killed and 172 wounded, the Saigon command said. It accused the Communist side of 2,045 cease-fire violations.

Sources said disputes between Communist and South Vietnamese members of the four-party Joint Military Commission still are preventing the commission from doing its job.

The sources indicated that the dispute centers on Communist demands for freedom of movement to Viet Cong controlled areas to talk with field commanders.

Communist regional teams have been unable to move freely because the South Vietnamese apparently have restricted such travel and because fighting continues in many contested areas of the country.

NEA Members Reject Proposal For Change

(c) Washington Star-News

Washington — Members of the National Education Association, the 1.2 million-member teacher organization, have decisively rejected a proposed new constitution that would have radically changed the nation's largest public employee group.

With less than half the membership voting the new constitution was turned down by a 230,446 to 163,592 vote, a 58% margin against "Constitutional Conventions" and the mail ballot of the membership cost over $1.5 million, an NEA spokeswoman said.

Generally, the rejected constitution would have greatly increased the power and political standing of the NEA president and guaranteed racial and ethnic minority groups representation on governing boards. In some respects, NEA would have been structured more like a labor union than like the "professional association" it now calls itself, if the constitution had passed.

Although the power of educational administrators has been greatly diminished in NEA over the last few years, classroom teachers, who make up the overwhelming bulk of the membership, would have gained more power under the new constitution.

The issue of the NEA's internal structure is sure to come up again this summer when the organization's annual convention in Portland, Ore. Another leading issue is sure to be the question of NEA merger with its rival, the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO. Last year's convention opposed the merger as long as the AFT retains its ties to organized labor.

NEA President Catherine Barrett issued a call for unity as she released the ball results. NEA leaders, she noted, had been actively involved on both sides of the constitutional convention issue.

"This is the hour for leaders to come forward and take up the challenge, for those who have disagreed to come together to search for agreement," Mrs. Barrett said.

Ballots were mailed out Nov. 1 and had to be returned by Jan. 1. Price Waterhouse & Co., an accounting firm, tabulated the vote.

Firms' Merger Free To Proceed

Washington (AP) — The Justice Department said Thursday it will not attempt to prevent Gulf and Western Industries Inc. of New York from acquiring Talcott National Corp. of New York.

The department said it had advised Gulf and Western, an insurance and finance corporation, it would not seek a restraining order to halt its outstanding tender offer for Talcott's stock.

The tender offer expires at 5 p.m. EST Friday. The department said, however, it will continue its investigation of the proposed acquisition in order to determine if it violates antitrust law.

Gulf and Western is a diversified corporation which is engaged in the insurance and finance business through its wholly-owned subsidiary, Association Corporation of North America. Talcott is a diversified financial service corporation primarily engaged in commercial and consumer finance.

Pev. Louis Witte Dies In Accident

Bertrand (AP) — A collision on a county road five miles north of Smithfield, Neb., Thursday afternoon claimed the life of the Rev. Mr. Louis Witte, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Bertrand.

The Nebraska State Patrol reported that the Witte car ran into the back of a truck owned by Gosper County and driven by Ralph Debban of Ellwood Debban was not injured.

Varner Defines Programs For Hiram Scott

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner told a legislative committee Thursday that NU is "prepared to move quickly" to establish four programs at the defunct Hiram Scott College in Scottsbluff if the Unicameral wishes.

Varner testified in favor of LB179, sponsored by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, which would authorize NU to acquire property both at Hiram Scott and at the defunct Pershing College in Beatrice.

The Miscellaneous Subjects Committee journeyed following a public hearing without taking action on the proposal.

Varner said the university is now satisfied that the Hiram Scott facilities, constructed at a cost of some $7 million, can be "made available to the state without cost to the taxpayers."

If the Legislature wishes, he said, NU is prepared to develop at Scottsbluff:

—a regional health education center.

—a western Nebraska continuing education center with "many of the features" of the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education in Lincoln.

—a center for agriculture, providing facilities for the experiment station at Mitchell, for extension services and "as a base for offering graduate programs in agriculture and home economics."

—a learning resource center for SUN, the State University of Nebraska program for providing college credits to people in their homes, largely through educational television.

Varner said the university has not projected a program for the use of Pershing College facilities since the property is privately owned.

Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice said his community wants Pershing property acquired by the state college system for use as a companion campus with Peru State College.

Acquisition of Pershing property could cost between $900,000 and $1,250,000, Carstens said, if its private owner does not decide to give it to the state.

Carpenter suggested that the Pershing plan be submitted to the Legislature in a separate bill. In the meantime, he said, he wants a bill amended to stipulate that the state would pay no funds to acquire the property at Scottsbluff.

Carstens said Carpenter should understand that he is "under no obligation" to support a separate Hiram Scott bill.

LB179 excludes dormitories at Hiram Scott because they carry outstanding revenue bonds of $4,375,000.

"We have reason to believe that these revenue bonds can be acquired for but a fraction of their face value and that the operation of the dormitories would easily meet any such obligations incurred," Varner said.

"There would be no request for tax dollars for the acquisition of the dormitories," he assured the committee.

Varner stressed that the university has no plans to establish a traditional four-year undergraduate program at Scottsbluff, nor does it have any intention of "becoming involved beyond its current activities" in vocational technical or junior college programs.

Gov. Stan Hathaway of Wyoming has already indicated interest in the proposed regional rural health education center, Varner said, and both Gov. J. James Exon and Hathaway plan to discuss the idea with the governors of North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana.

In continuing education, Varner pointed to possible western Nebraska programs for businessmen, farmers and ranchers, homemakers and home economists, engineers, law enforcement officials, lawyers and social workers.

The end result of the proposed program at Scottsbluff would "do much to improve the spirit of cohesiveness for the entire state," Varner suggested. There is an attitude in western Nebraska that "NU has not quite reached out to them," he said.

"Out in the west," John Selzer, chairman of the University of Nebraska at Scottsbluff Committee, told senators, "we sometimes feel like stepchildren."

Carpenter said he has helped appropriate "tens of millions of dollars" for state and university activities in Lincoln and Omaha.

Now, he said, his constituents are asking, "Carpenter, it's time for you to represent us."

Meadow Lane Location Is Selected For Indoor-Outdoor Swimming Pool

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The Parks and Recreation Board Thursday opted for the Meadow Lane School location for a proposed indoor-outdoor swimming pool — the first of its kind in Lincoln.

The board chose the Meadow Lane location over a Seacrest Park site.

That action followed despite a request from southeast Lincoln residents for a pool at the park location. William Wilke presented a petition signed by 1,480 people living in the Wedgewood, Trendwood and Maple Village areas.

Last summer a group of Meadow Lane residents requested a pool in their neighborhood. Following that request, the board referred the matter to a subcommittee for study. That committee recommended the school location.

Recreation Superintendent Dick Leker pointed out that according to 1970 Census figures, almost twice as many potential swimmers live in the Meadow Lane School area as in the Seacrest Park area.

Leker said that approximately 4,300 youngsters, in the 5 to 19 age bracket, live in Meadow Lane compared to 2,600 living around Seacrest Park.

As proposed, the indoor-outdoor pool would be located on school grounds and attached to the school building.

The school district then would be allowed use of the facility during regular school hours, with the pool open to the general public at other times.

Last month, the board proposed that the pool be included in the city's 1973-74 capital improvements program. The facility is estimated to cost $450,000.

City Councilwoman Helen Roosalis told the board they may have to justify expenditure of funds for construction of an indoor-outdoor pool, instead of using the money for construction of several outdoor pools.

"You're going to have to prove a real need for this kind of facility," she said.

Board member Phyllis Pauley replied that outdoor pools receive a limited amount of use during the three-month summer period, whereas, she contended, an enclosed pool would be used on a year around basis.

Drug Council Official Hits Attention On Law Enforcement

By MILAN WALI
Star Staff Writer

The coordinator of drug activities for the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs said Thursday he fears that legislative attention directed solely at law enforcement amounts to a "simplistic approach to a very complex problem."

In an interview, Eric McMasters said he is convinced personally that adequate law enforcement is "absolutely important" in the fight against drug abuse.

But McMasters, himself a former police officer, said he was disturbed by what he believes to be an inordinate amount of attention on law enforcement, combined with a relative lack of attention on treatment and other aspects.

"There are a lot of bills, publicity and talk in the Legislature on drug abuse," he said. "But no one is emphasizing anything other than a law enforcement or criminal justice approach."

McMasters said he is "afraid (legislative proposals) are getting dashed in for political reasons," and he suggested a strict law enforcement approach "appeals to the emotions of citizens."

But with attention only to law enforcement, he said, "the people will think we are really addressing the problems," creating expectations which cannot be fulfilled solely by the criminal justice system.

At the same time, he said, such attention puts "unrealistic demands on law enforcement."

"What other social, health or legal problem has been eliminated because of increased law enforcement?" McMasters asked.

Referring to plans by the Legislature's Judiciary Committee to seek full Unicameral approval for drug probes in Lincoln and Omaha, McMasters said he will, if the Lincoln investigation is held, "do everything I can to see that other aspects are at least presented."

McMasters said the Legislature should also give attention to "prevention, education, treatment and rehabilitation."

He said there are many state agencies as well as local agencies which would be willing to respond to legislative requests for information on combating drug abuse.

But he said they apparently are not being asked.

The state now has no treatment options to incarceration, he said, leaving courts with few alternatives other than probation for drug offenders who need medical attention.

McMasters recently praised a Lincoln City Council decision to fund the start of a drug abuse contact and counseling center for youthful drug users in the city.

He said that action illustrated the kind of support needed from governmental bodies.

Meat Might Get Nutrition Labels

Washington (UPI) — Meat products will eventually carry the same nutritional labels about to be required of other foods — hopefully at no additional cost to the consumer — an Agriculture Department expert said Thursday.

The nutritional labeling provisions announced by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) last month did not cover meat and poultry products. But Dr. Harry C. Mussman of the Agriculture Department predicted that the same general rules would be extended to meat products.

Mussman said he believed the labeling of meat products could be put into effect without "materially altering the cost to the consumer."

Vientiane — A well-informed diplomatic source reported Thursday night that the Laotian government and the Pathet Lao had agreed in principle on a cease-fire. (More on Page 2.)

Aid To North Opposed

Washington — Secretary of State Rogers was told by several congressmen that the plan to give economic aid to North Vietnam faced growing public opposition. The warning came as Rogers appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in his first appearance on

Congress Halts Rail Strike

Washington — Congress adopted a resolution Thursday to halt for at least 90 days a strike that had stopped all passenger and freight service on the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad. The resolution was flown to the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., for the President's signature. (More on Page 2.)

Tooling Up Continues

B52 Pilot Discharged

Washington — Capt. Michael J. Heck, a decorated B-52 pilot who refused in December to fly any more bombing raids over Vietnam, has been granted a discharge from the Air Force, his civilian lawyer said Thursday. The 30-year-old Heck had flown 175 missions in Vietnam when he told his superior officers he would not take part in another. He based his decision on moral considerations and matters of conscience.

Dual Authority To Be Asked

Washington — President Nixon will reportedly ask Congress for dual authority to impose an across-the-board import surcharge whenever the nation shows a deficit in its international balance of payments and to cut tariffs when there is a surplus. The proposal, part of a comprehensive package of trade legislation, has no direct connection with the current international monetary turmoil.

Speculators Scramble

Defendants Must Appear

Washington — The federal prosecutor in the Watergate case, Earl J. Silbert, said Thursday in an interview that all seven defendants would be ordered to appear before a grand jury in an attempt to "explore every conceivable avenue" of possible high-level Nixon administration involvement. (More on Page 7.)

Agreement Is Reported For Laos Cease-Fire

The New York Times

Vientiane, Laos — A highly informed diplomatic source reported Thursday night that an agreement in principle has been reached between the Vientiane government and the Communist-led Pathet Lao for a cease-fire in Laos, and that a cease-fire will take effect next Wednesday.

The source said a formal agreement on the cease-fire would probably be signed Tuesday.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, the Laotian premier, has been holding long talks each day since last Monday with the Pathet Lao representative here, Phoumi Vongvichit.

It is felt that the extremely precarious military situation in which the Vientiane forces now find themselves has contributed to bringing the negotiating process to a head.

Kissinger Influence

It is expected that the brief visit that U.S. presidential assistant Henry A. Kissinger is scheduled to pay here Friday night will contribute to the final form of the cease-fire agreement takes.

Kissinger is scheduled to meet with Prince Souvanna and leave here Saturday morning for Hanoi.

Meanwhile, many Laotian politicians, rightist and neutralists, were expressing fears that the forthcoming peace settlement may lead to the eventual domination of all Laos by the Pathet Lao.

Reports told of a letter from the former Laotian rightist leader, Phoumi Nosavan, to some right-wing politicians here, in effect proposing that the right wing be placed under new leadership, presumably his own.

Exiled After Attempt

Phoumi was stripped of his rank as general and forced into exile in Thailand after he and his followers attempted a coup d'etat against the neutralist government in 1964.

In the early 1960s, Phoumi was strongly supported by the United States, and Communist diplomats were expressing fears that Washington might support his armed return to Laos and Thailand.

American sources reiterated, however, that Washington completely supports Souvanna and his government and would not tolerate any effort by the right to undermine his government or a peace agreement.

But dissatisfaction and worry were also being expressed by officials in Souvanna's own government.

RED CROSS IS AFFIXED

An American airman steps down a ladder after placing a large red cross stencil (top of ladder) on the tail section of a C-141 Starlifter at Clark Air Base, Philippines. The plane is ready to fly to Hanoi to pick up U.S. prisoners of war when they are released by North Vietnam.

Rogers Silent On Reinvolverment, Says Critics Prolonged Viet War

Washington (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers refused Thursday to discuss possible American military reinvolverment in South Vietnam and angrily accused critics of American policy at home and abroad of prolonging the war.

"If a lot of people had been quieter we could have brought this war to a conclusion much sooner," Rogers told the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Rogers also told the committee violations of the Vietnam cease-fire had been relatively minor, indicating the peace settlement, considered most fragile by many, would, in the long run, be successful.

First Since December

He made his first appearance before a congressional committee since the 12-day bombing of Vietnam in December and the resultant negotiations that have produced a cease-fire in South Vietnam.

Rogers complained bitterly that some members of Congress, instead of praising the administration for its works of peace, were continuing to harp about the administration's policy.

"There seems to be a reluctance on the part of the people who opposed the president to support him now," Rogers said, contending Nixon's policy of "standing fast" in Vietnam despite criticism at home and abroad has made him a recognized "world leader in the cause of peace."

Once again Rogers attacked Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme for his statements during the December bombing, comparing U.S. actions in South Vietnam to the great human atrocities of history.

Criticism "inappropriate" Then, looking at Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Mich.—one of the House's most outspoken critics of the war—Rogers said: "inappropriate at this time to find criticism now on the part of our friends" at home and abroad since a settlement has been achieved.

Fraser and several other committee members are backing legislation to bar the United States from renewing military actions in South Vietnam—either through bombing or reintroduction of ground troops—once the United States has withdrawn its troops and prisoners are released.

Rogers opposed such measures and declined to say what future military options the United States will have in Vietnam should the cease-fire collapse.

"I'm just not going to talk about what happens if the agreement is not successful," he said.

POWs Exempt From Charges

Washington (UPI) — No charges will be filed against returning war prisoners for making propaganda statements over North Vietnamese radio the Defense Department said Thursday.

But Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim did not rule out disciplinary action against POWs for "ratting on comrades" or stealing food from fellow prisoners.

He said a highway patrolman drove the same stretch of Interstate 80 in western Wyoming only a few hours before the discovery of David Huffstetter, 25, Salt Lake City, and saw no cars stopped at the roadside.

POWs Must Pay Tax On Interest From Savings

Washington (UPI) — The Defense Department said Thursday the back pay that has accumulated for America's prisoners of war — in some cases amounting to more than $100,000 — will be tax exempt. The men will have to pay tax, however, on the interest from savings accounts into which part of each paycheck was automatically deposited, a Pentagon spokesman said.

Suicide's Car 'Wasn't There'

Green River, Wyo. (UPI) — A Wyoming Highway Patrol captain said the car in which a young man killed himself was not stranded on a roadway for 11 hours in a suicide note.

Climax Nears In Dollar Crisis

London (AP) — The two-week-old international money crisis undermining the strength of the U. S. dollar appeared Thursday to be headed for a climax, perhaps by the weekend.

The value of the American currency was particularly threatened in West Germany by money dealers seeking to buy marks in anticipation the German currency will be revalued, despite Bonn's resolve not to do so.

The dollar-dumping in West Germany and other money markets reflected a widespread judgment that the dollar's official value is pegged higher than its real worth, and that sooner or later the official rate will have to give.

Washington wants the readjustment to come by revaluation of foreign currencies, particularly the West German mark and the Japanese yen. But neither the Germans nor the Japanese, so far, have been willing to undercut their export chances.

Import Prices Affected
If their currencies were revalued as the United States wants, imports such as Volkswagens and transistor radios would be more expensive in U. S. stores. And December 1971 could be wrecked. The agreement sealed an 8.57% dollar devaluation that was decided on because of earlier pressure on the U.S. currency.

Governors of central banks from leading West European nations were due to meet in Basel, Switzerland, over the weekend to discuss the current crisis. The guidelines of any attempt to resolve the crisis could emerge from that meeting.

It brings together the top bankers from Britain, the Netherlands, Sweden and other invited countries. Nominally it is to attend a formal board session of the Bank for International Settlements. But in hotel rooms before and after the formal meeting, the currency crisis is sure to be the No. 1 topic.

First Indications
Financial sources in London believe first indications of any moves to stabilize currency markets should be discussed at Basel. These sources also expect any government action, to float a national currency for example, would be likely over the weekend when money markets are closed.

The problem they all face is most acute in Germany.

Because the German mark is relatively strong, much of the dollar selling over the last two weeks has been in exchange for marks. The Germans have been forced to take in more than $4 billion, greatly expanding their money supply and thereby feeding inflation.

Chancellor Willy Brandt's government has repeatedly pledged it will not revalue or let the mark float up. It has promised to continue support buying as long as necessary to maintain the exchange rate.

But speculators are still betting that the Germans will have to give in to combat inflationary pressure and let the mark move up, even if that means export losses for Germany.

The continuing flood of dollars sales in Europe, meanwhile, remains a test of nerves between speculators betting on realigned exchange rates and governments fighting to maintain the current ones.

Japan, like Germany, has a relatively strong currency and has been forced all week to provide heavy support buying to maintain the dollar's yen exchange rate. Like the Germans, the Japanese want to avoid a revaluation that would hurt their exports.

Japan bought an estimated $105 million Thursday.

The dollar also was weak elsewhere. In Zurich it was down to 3.56 Swiss francs, well below the old rate of 3.84 francs in force before Jan. 23, when Switzerland floated its currency and stopped supporting the dollar.

The dollar also was down to floor levels in Amsterdam and near there in Paris and other centers. It held fairly steady against Britain's floating pound. Trading in London was described as quiet.

Dealers in Europe have tended to blame the crisis on the newly announced deficit of $3.5 billion in the U. S. 1972 balance of payments.

PLANE CRASH SCENE . . . All that remains.

Seven Bodies Found In Crash Rubble

Alameda, Calif. (AP) — Searchers have found seven bodies in the smoldering rubble of an apartment building destroyed when a Navy fighter jet smashed into it.

Fire Chief Ernest Servente said Thursday that as many as 40 persons may have died in the disaster. He based his estimate on reports that 42 to 45 persons were in the open-courtyard building at the time.

At least 17 persons were injured. The A7 Corsair attack plane clipped one apartment building Wednesday night and then plunged through the roof of the four-story 27-unit Tahoe Apartments.

Collapsed In Flames
The Tahoe building, at 1814 Central Ave., collapsed in flames and two adjacent structures were set afire.

Disaster crews, unable to go into the burning wreckage for hours, continued to comb the debris.

Lt. Robert Lee Ward, 28, of Carry, N.C., the plane's only occupant, was flying at 28,000 feet on a short "round robin" training flight from Lemoore Naval Air Station near Fresno, Calif., when his craft plunged to earth on this residential island on San Francisco Bay.

Navy Cmdr. William D. Collins, public affairs officer with the Pacific Fleet, said investigators were certain Ward did not eject before the crash. He said they found in the rubble his ejection seat handle and a dyemarker pilots use to aid rescuers in locating them in the water.

Collins said he could neither confirm nor deny reports that the plane was on fire just before the crash.

Few Escape
Eyewitnesses reported seeing only a very few occupants escape the building before it exploded, sending flames and smoke several hundred feet into the night sky.

"I heard screaming coming from inside the building," said eyewitness Wayne Cook, 29. "It got worse and worse and then stopped."

Fiery debris and jet fuel spread the flames to two adjacent apartment buildings, where at least 17 persons were reported injured with burns and cuts.

As Marines, firemen and volunteers wearing asbestos suits probed the wreckage with rakes and axes, police cordoned off a two-block area and warned off looters who they said were reported seizing television sets and other valuables from the less-severely damaged buildings.

Alameda County Deputy Chief Coroner Roland W. Pahl said many of the victims may have been totally consumed.

'Cremated Bodies
"It's quite possible that the shifting of the rubble and the intense heat would have cremated the bodies to the point where they will never be found," Pahl said.

Two of the building tenants, Gary and Toni Gomes, said they survived because they went out to play bingo Wednesday night.

The couple, both 20, said it was the first time they had been out in the evening since moving in last Saturday.

"This is all we've got," added Gomes, who held a newspaper and pointed at his wife who clutched a beige cape and her purse.

"All we've got is our lives," she said, and he replied, "Thank God for that."

Among the bodies removed from the building was an infant cradled underneath the body of an adult.

Collins said the Navy had convened a board of investigation in an effort to learn what caused the crash.

Servente said the Navy had asked that its surgeons be allowed to examine Ward's body, should it be found, to determine if some physical disorder caused him to lose control of the plane.

Ward's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Ward of Cary, N.C., were preparing Thursday to fly to California as they awaited word on their son's fate.

"Flying was his whole life," Ward said of his son.

The pilot was married and had a 1-year-old son.

Indians, Alaskans Will Get Revenue-Sharing

Washington (AP) — The nation's Indian tribes and Alaskan native villagers will receive about $6.2 million in federal revenue-sharing funds for 1972, the Treasury Department said Thursday.

The Treasury's Office of Revenue Sharing said the checks for the tribes and villages will be mailed out Friday. There will be 331 checks sent to help Indian units with a total population of 293,970.

Graham Watt, the newly appointed director of the office, said each tribe and village will have until March 15 to challenge the data on which the allotments were figured.

He said the data is based on April 1970 population estimates prepared by the Census Bureau of Indian Affairs.

The Treasury has already mailed 1972 checks for state and local government units throughout the nation. It delayed sending checks to Indian tribes and Alaskan native villages because of special problems involved.

According to the office, a tribe or native village will receive its payments from funds allocated to a county area in which it is located on the basis of the proportion the tribal population represents of the total county area.

The Treasury said that the payments must be spent for the benefit of the members of a tribe or village.

The total allocated for Indians and Alaskan natives figures out to $20.79 per capita. This is below the per capita allotment for the rest of the nation.

But such comparisons aren't valid, a spokesman said, because revenue-sharing funds are distributed according to a formula which takes into account income and tax efforts as well as population.

From now on, Watt said, the tribes and villages will receive their revenue-sharing payments on a quarterly basis along with state and local governments.

The Treasury mailed about $5.2 billion to state and local governments last year to launch the administration's general revenue-sharing program, which permits these units to use the money for almost any functions.

2 Men Bound Over In Killing Of Banker

Doniphan, Mo. (AP) — Two Van Buren, Mo., men have been bound over for trial on first-degree murder charges after two days of hearings into the slaying of the Grandin, Mo., bank president, his wife and 17-year-old daughter last month.

At a preliminary hearing Thursday, Magistrate Willie Dodd of Ripley County ordered Lloyd D. Cowin, 21, held for trial on three murder charges in circuit court.

At the request of Cowin's court-appointed lawyer, Dodd set the defendant's bond at a total of $300,000 on the three counts.

Jerry Wayne Rector, 22, was ordered held for trial Wednesday.

No hearing date had been set for the third man charged in the extortion-slayings, Dallas R. Delay, 33, of Valle Mines, Mo.

They were charged in the Jan. 17 shooting deaths of Robert R. Kitterman, 43; his wife, Bertha, 38, and their daughter, Roberta.

The Kittermans' bodies were found tied to trees less than two hours after Kitterman left his bank with a bag containing $10,850 in ransom to rescue his wife and daughter. Each had been shot once in the head.

Bumper Wheat Crop Ahead, International Council Says

London (AP) — The International Wheat Council Thursday forecast a bumper 299.5-million ton wheat crop for the 1972-73 crop year, only some 19.5 million tons short of the world's record last year.

In its annual wheat review, the IWC says the drop is mainly due to crop failure in the Soviet Union where the harvest is expected to total 80 million tons, 19 million below last year.

The IWC describes the large purchases made by the Soviet Union in the early months of the 1972-73 crop year as the "most dramatic event in the world grain market since the Second World War."

The Wheat Council asserts that this shortfall has dominated world wheat trade in the current crop year, leading to a substantial reduction in stocks in the main wheat exporting countries.

Wheat production in the seven main exporters — Argentina, Australia, Canada, the European Common Market, Spain, Sweden and the United States — is forecast as 112.1 million tons, only one million tons less than in the year before.

conversely, U. S. exports would be cheaper in Germany and Japan, giving U. S. traders an edge.

Reports from dealers in Amsterdam and Zurich said Middle East government banks joined the dollar-selling wave Thursday, putting more pressure on the U. S. currency. According to these accounts the Middle East banks, which receive heavy dollar payment for oil, were cashing in these holdings for West German marks.

Earlier in the week, the bulk of the dollar sales were said to be from funds deposited in Europe.

Partly as a result of the new influx from the Middle East, West Germany's state bank was forced to take in an unprecedented $1.7 billion Thursday, the biggest one-day amount of support buying in the current crisis.

The Germans, under international agreements, are pledged to step in and buy dollars to keep the U. S. currency from falling below the permitted floor rate of 3.1500 marks. But despite the massive support operation, the dollar closed in Frankfurt at 3.149 marks, fractionally below the floor.

State Bank Leaves
This was because the state bank, as it usually does, left the market an hour before close. It is virtually certain to step in again when the market reopens Friday. Otherwise the dollar would be in effect devalued and the international exchange rates worked out in Washington in the Smithsonian agreement of

BEAUTIFUL BRAGG'S...FOR A BEAUTIFUL YOU

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

In the arena of public affairs, one does a more constructive job if he seeks to emphasize the positive. Thus, you should look to solutions to problems rather than merely taking issue with that which might be proposed by others.

We have strongly recommended the district plan of representation now being proposed in the State Legislature for Lincoln. We are firmly convinced that the government we have today in Lincoln is far superior, without any changes at all, to the district idea.

But it is possible that changes might be made to incorporate into our system some of the advantages of a district plan, without inheriting its many liabilities. One such change or alternative might be to go to a full-time City Council.

In part, the district idea has an appeal based in localized knowledge or understanding. That is, the representative of a district knows that district better than someone elected at large from another area of town.

A full-time City Council would help move the at-large system toward that same district advantage. A council member's being full-time would allow him or her the opportunity of coming to know much better the problems and difficulties of all areas of the city, as opposed to the area in which he or she might live and-or work.

In other words, a full-time member of the council would be more knowledgeable in all city affairs than a part-time member. It follows that in knowing more about the city and its people, the member could do a better job for all of them.

Additionally, full-time membership would allow for the possibility of broader income representation on the council. If that happened, it might well provide an additional element of district representation, but again, without the liability of that system.

The present part-time system encourages membership on the council out of middle and higher income groups, because some middle and most lower income people cannot afford or arrange their time to serve. Given Lincoln living patterns, this situation tends to favor some geographic areas over others in representation on the council.

But a full-time council, with membership salary at about $15,000 per year, would open the door of elective office to anyone. An expansion of membership from seven to nine would further the possibility of representation on the council from all areas of the city, even with continuing at-large elections.

With such a structure, the council itself might organize in such a manner as to further its grasp of all municipal affairs.

Such organization might include a separation of regular council meetings into strictly formal actions, hearings and study efforts. The latter could include both the general public and the administrative officers of city government.

Those who feel estranged from city government might do well to consider such an approach rather than dismissing it out of hand for reasons of cost or reasons, real or imagined, of lack of merit on the part of the existing council membership.

Such a plan would cost money but it could easily be done for less than a one-mill levy per year, less than $1 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Thus, it could be done at a cost to the average home-owner in Lincoln of $5 or so a year. For such a small price, we would be buying a lot of potential and, hopefully, a lot of results.

Top Dogs, Englishmen Go Out In Midday Fun

LONDON — Every dog has his day. In England this year it happens to be Feb. 9, when Cruft's Dog Show, the world's largest, opens at the Olympia Sir Richard Glyn, chairman of the prestigious Cruft's committee, has announced that older dogs will be barred from competing in favor of younger, less flatulent ones. To properly celebrate the centenary of the British Kennel Club, ladies as elegantly powdered and coiffed as their freshly shampooed poodles will be parading up and down the aisles. In backstage dressing rooms, fastidious groomers will be brushing their dogs' teeth and adjusting curls with hair dryers. No amateur contest this. Each of the 7,581 participating dogs won a first prize in a championship show last season. Cruft's is a must for every self-respecting British dog lover—and who in this country is not?

With more than 35,000 registered breeders of pedigreed dogs in the United Kingdom, few of those attending the show will be able to get a close look at the 1973 champion. But after two hectic days of exhibitions and obedience tests, most observers will be too tired to care. For some people, indeed, the real show is provided not by the parading animals but by their strutting and preening owners and handlers.

The world's first organized dog show was held June 28, 1859, in Newcastle-on-Tyne. Others soon followed. By 1891 Charles Cruft, who had set himself up selling "dog cakes" (biscuits) in London, established a show to promote his wares. Although he himself never owned a dog, Cruft is now recognized as the greatest public relations man in dog-show history.

Since Cruft's death in 1938, the show has been sponsored by the Kennel Club. It increased in size every year until 1964, when strict entrance requirements were imposed. Last year only 6,635 dogs were shown—all champions from the more than 2,500 dog shows held every year in Britain.

There's no business like dog business. Britain's canine population is estimated at 4.5 million, and $300 million worth of pet food is sold every year. Dog food manufacturers compete vigorously to sign up the champions from Cruft's. In fact, the show has become a marketplace for hawking everything from muzzles to birth-control pills for overly prolific bitches.

The export market for pedigreed dogs is considerable. Last year, more than 13,000 of them were shipped abroad. The most popular breeds were Yorkshire terriers, toy poodles, cocker spaniels, basset hounds, Pekingese and Old English sheepdogs. American dog fanciers—who are not allowed to exhibit at Cruft's because of strict quarantine rules—are nevertheless wild about the show. Last year a group of them chartered three jets for the occasion. Some brought dogs back with them.

Highlights of the judging will be the selection of best in each breed and then of the show-champion. Her grace, the Duchess of Newcastle, will present the trophy. Last year's Supreme Champion, a 68-pound bull terrier called Abraxus Audacity, netted thousands of dollars in advertising revenue. But the owner, Miss Violet Drummond-Dick, turned down offers for Abraxus in excess of $8,000. "He's not for sale," she told Editorial Research Reports. "He's the family pet, you know."

The New 'War On Poverty'

Inquiry Or Witch Hunt?

"What's going on is not a bipartisan inquiry," said Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, "but a partisan political effort to extract the last drop of juice from a squeezed lemon, and a lemon it is."

Scott was referring to the Senate's investigation of the Watergate incident and he was understandably irate at Democratic attempts to portray the Republicans as the only bad guys in town.

The Senate Wednesday voted 77-0 to create a special committee of four Democrats and three Republicans to investigate political espionage and alleged sabotage against Democrats during the 1972 presidential campaign. The committee was instructed to report its findings by Feb. 28 next year. The unanimous vote, however, was preceded by unsuccessful Republican attempts to equalize party strength on the committee and to broaden the subject matter under discussion by calling for an investigation by the committee of alleged acts of political espionage against the GOP in 1964 and 1968.

Those failing motions prompted Republicans to grumble about a "packed jury" and the prospect that the Watergate inquiry would turn into a "witch hunt." And they prompted Scott to suggest that the Democrats were trying to gain mileage from a political lemon.

Scott can be criticized for downgrading the importance of the Watergate affair, which dramatized as nothing before it the seamy side of politics. Before the arrests at the Watergate headquarters of the Democratic Party, people had been unaware that such corrupt practices could reach almost to the door of the White House.

But Scott and his Republican colleagues can't be blamed for wanting to dig more deeply into political espionage than the zealous Democratic crusade to uncover the whole truth about the Watergate caper.

It can be argued that investigating allegations of political espionage other than the Watergate would open up a can of worms and dilute efforts to get at the truth surrounding the most publicized cloak and dagger issue of the day. But by limiting the subject matter to the Watergate only, the Democrats open themselves up to witch hunt charges that the public probably will accept.

House Wins First Round

The House of Representatives might have found a more crucial issue on which to challenge the White House on the matter of abolishing programs funded by Congress. But the issue it did choose, restoration of funds for the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP), will stand tall on its own merits.

The House Wednesday, with a coalition of Democrats and farm state Republicans, won the first round of Congress' budget battle with the Nixon administration by voting to require the administration to continue REAP. The vote total, however, was 11 shy of what will be needed to override an expected presidential veto.

It should be noted that Rep. Dave Martin of Nebraska's Third District voted against the REAP measure while Congressmen John Y. McCollister and Charles Thone voted for it.

JAMES RESTON

Our Debt Of Honor

NEW YORK — After all the consoling ceremonies at the White House, and the family reunions and tears on television the reality for the prisoners coming home at last will begin in private. "When the saints come marching home" from Vietnam what will they find?

The rest of us will never really understand. Most of us in this big continental country never had a son or relation killed or maimed in Vietnam. America lost 46,000 dead, but for most of us, this was a statistic in the papers and not a tragedy in the family or down the street.

For the liberated prisoners and their families, however, it is an intensely personal crisis. On the television, it looks like a reunion of lovers and families, but in reality, it is a reunion of strangers.

The prisoners come back different men, usually helpless or rebellious. They have had to surrender to endure. Many of them have literally been "killing time," which means killing their fears, blotting out the present, romanticizing the past, and dreaming of a family and an America that are changed beyond their imagining.

In the history of the Republic, the Vietnam war will probably look like a capricious incident, but the United States was already involved in it casually but carefully under President Eisenhower in 1953, twenty years ago, and much more deeply involved under President Kennedy in 1963. In family terms, this is a very long time.

The Census Bureau in Washington tells us that over half the people in the United States are now under 28 years of age. This means that most of our people cannot even remember much before we were involved in Vietnam. And in the lives of the prisoners now coming home, most of whom are under 25, Vietnam dominates everything.

They not only come home different men, but come home to the same but different older wives, different children, and a different country, with different memories, and different values. After the reunion and the celebration, trying to sort all this out at home and in the community is bound to be an agony.

The least that can be done for these returning prisoners is to see that they are given good jobs, and relieved of the personal anxiety of taking care of the security of their wives and the education of their children. But even this is not enough.

No doubt the communities they return to will see that they are employed, but after a few years it is easy to forget so while the President and the Congress are now celebrating the courage and endurance of the prisoners, maybe they should agree on a prisoners bill that would ensure the economic security of these families during the coming years, when they will still be struggling with the consequences of Vietnam long after most people have forgotten.

If the returning American prisoners are to be dealt with practically, and not merely politically or romantically, legislation must be introduced now, with the support of the President and the leaders of the Congress to relieve these families of their economic anxieties.

The government cannot wipe out their memories. The war has gone on too long and many of them have been in prison for too many years to regain a normal family life or readjust to the values and styles of America that

MILAN WALL

Problems Won't Go Away

If other white, middle-class Americans are like me, they're getting mighty tired of hearing about "issues," talking about "problems" and being confronted with "challenges."

Perhaps many of us said that last November in the presidential elections, when we took the fella who appeared to promise a return to normalcy, not a new round of attacks on America's negative aspects.

I voted for the one who wanted to concentrate on the problems. But in the past week or two, the overburdened-with-problems revolt that put Mr. Nixon back into office began to hover over me, too.

I think I began to understand it. I know I don't like it.

Those feelings began to jell last week near the end of the first "America '73" program on PBS.

After many of us who had sat there in that audience for the taping had been given our chance to have our say, it dawned on me that when the cameras stopped, most of us would simply go home with little or no idea on how we might combat the problems we had cited.

Many were worried about the problems at home now and the problems that would be at home when the POWs returned, or when the draft-dodgers would be granted amnesty, or simply when the nation turned its attention more to the homefront.

But even though there was a lot of worry about those things, it was clear that most of us would rather not have to do much about them.

Some of us had, in the past few years, marched in the streets, fired off letters to elected representatives, written stinging editorials, voted for candidates who promised peace abroad and attention at home.

None of it had worked . . . not really.

Most of us, of course, had not marched, not written letters, voted for candidates who we thought would either help maintain the status quo or return America to some romantic past that probably never existed.

It was suddenly with those folks that I began to feel a kinship.

And I didn't like it.

I caught myself, during the past few days, begin to say in conversation, "I don't want to talk about that anymore," whenever the discussions turned to issues that had been the subject of many a previous conversation.

I found myself remembering how I had grown tired, on occasion, of hearing oppressed types go on and on about how they were mistreated by the rest of us.

And, in the middle of all that thought, a friend told me her offers to volunteer her services as a remedial reading teacher to minority groups had been rebuffed with the comment that unless she shared the color, she couldn't help.

I waited for my friend to say that she was offended. But instead she merely told me that if we were all that pessimistic, nothing would get done.

She said she really didn't want to take no for an answer.

And I liked what she said, because I think too many of us are willing to take no for an answer, and then to go about our narrowed business.

The combination of those two experiences was somewhat frightening.

On the one hand, I had come close to saying that it was time to pull the shades and go about the business of making a living, attending to my affairs, ignoring what was happening to others.

And, on the other hand, a friend who had offered to lend her help had been told it wasn't wanted. That, too, is enough to send us all off to our homes, pulling the shades behind us.

Unfortunately, that is exactly what Mr. Nixon seems to want us to do.

But the nation simply can't let it happen.

Just as it would be tragic now, after the experience of Vietnam, if the nation pulled its shades on the rest of the world and crawled into the "safety" of isolation, so it would be tragic if we all took seriously Nixon's call for a new birth of rugged individualism.

Just as America cannot ignore the problems of the world, even though we have finally extricated ourselves from Vietnam, neither can individuals in America ignore the problems at home.

We cannot forget that we still have, in this affluent country, the poor, the unemployed, the sick, the aged, the down-trodden.

We cannot ignore the potential for harm that exists in the foolish use or misuse of natural resources, in the pollution of our air, the fouling of our waters, the inattention to our land.

We cannot turn our backs on the responsibilities of humanity and stewardship that accompany the gift of life.

And those of us for whom that gift has been especially good must not withdraw to the apparent safety of our homes, turning the rest of the world out with the flick of a doorlock.

Letters To The Editor

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by the writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Abortion Issue

Cortland, Neb.

To the Dickeson family and their abortion policy, we should make clear that the purpose of hospitals, public or private, is to promote life, not to destroy it. From the moment of conception, the fetus is alive. Who can challenge that?

If Mr. Dickeson insists on the right to kill, let it be done in a less sacred institution. Surely he can find private facilities to handle murders, so that hospitals would not be forced to become partners in such a crime.

If our Constitution is the "word," as Mr. Dickeson suggests, then how can you force a hospital which is made up of people to perform such actions that violate their moral and correct code of behavior? How is it that we cannot force a man to fight a war when it is against his moral code (and we do help men with federal aid of all kinds, i.e., free education), yet it is all right to force hospitals which are made up of human beings to kill or be a part of killing that is against their will?

Hospitals should be left alone. As for the right for women to make their own decisions, remember this. It was God who said: "Thou shalt not kill."

RON ZIMMER

Facing Facts

Lexington, Neb.

I can't help but put on paper some answers to the old ladies who think that abortion is appalling. Sure, there are better ways for birth control but sometimes these don't work, or a girl gets pregnant when she is forced to. Why shouldn't there be a way out for the girl the same as the boy?

Abortion has been going on since the beginning of time. It just wasn't legal, or in other words, behind the law and covered up. Why should a girl have to go to a dirty old doctor, pay an enormous fee and then maybe get infection and die?

Or maybe they think it would be better that the girl be punished so she has to keep the baby. And what of the baby? It has no care, no parents and no love. I could cite a few cases I know of where the child would be another prostitute like her mother. Much better if she had never had the baby in the first place.

I would say, no, this is not a person at 4½ weeks. It couldn't think and is not formed at all. Even at five months, a baby isn't formed enough to live.

I think some people read things in their Bibles that don't apply to the facts of the world. These things happen all the time. They might as well face it. We have population enough as it is. Why a bunch more in the home for dependent children whom no one wants. Do they think there is anything godly about that?

I would say, praise God that people have their eyes open and abortions are legal.

MRS. S.

Lincoln, Neb.

There is a peace that democratic leaders of the world can understand, when they have done the best they can with what they have to work with. In this 20-year war, Americans have fought valiantly, while behind the lines as in them, they had to combat filth and ignorance, hatred and racism beyond the call of duty.

Perhaps America will conduct business as usual, even peace as usual. But remembering, may we also learn the value of humanity. We aren't just colors — American material is plaid, well-knitted and with straight seams.

May Americans be forever proud of the quality of individuals, each with his own mind, body, name and heart. Don't bury progress in a common grave, or dig democracy with a community shovel.

LUCILLE PATTERSON

Lincoln, Neb.

The fact that apparently sane people could not get out of a state hospital once they committed themselves is not so strange. Suppose innocent people went to a penitentiary and were properly admitted. Would they expect the guards and warden to recognize their innocence and give them a release? Or suppose apparently well people occupied beds in a general hospital. Would they expect other doctors and the nurses to assume they weren't sick and discharge them?

Or suppose Democrats went to a Republican convention. Would they expect to be recognized as Democrats?

The only thing the law school professor proved was that getting into a place where you are unwanted is easier than getting out.

COMPOS

Program Viewed

Fayetteville, Ark.

This is an open letter regarding the recent TV special on Channel 12, ETV.

Thank you, Lincoln, for granting our country a penetrating glimpse in microcosm into its own soul and conscience.

Whether one agreed or disagreed with particular views expressed isn't too important. What is important and what your program made plain for all to see is that in one way or another, we are all victims. Victims of historical forces and events over which we have little or no control. Victims crying out for comfort and love and understanding, while employing verbiage to mute those anguished cries.

I hope that I speak for most of the program's viewers when I say that my heart went out to you. I identified with, suffered with and loved each of you in your turn at the mike. Never have I felt more deeply my unity with others (or, by extension, the oneness of all people everywhere) than I did in that brief meeting with you beautiful people of Lincoln.

Equal Rights Amendment Inches Toward Ratification

By The Associated Press

The equal rights amendment to the U. S. Constitution is inching its way toward ratification, but has run into trouble in several states. Two states that previously adopted the amendment are considering measures to rescind approval.

The amendment needs the approval of 38 states to become law. Thus far, it has been passed in 26 states. The most recent to act were Minnesota, Oregon and Mississippi. It was ratified in Minnesota and Oregon Thursday, but a Mississippi legislature committee killed the ratification attempt for the current session by tabling a resolution approving the amendment. About half a dozen states have rejected the proposal. It is pending in the rest.

The language of the proposed amendment is simple. "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Controversial Issues

The issues it has raised, however, have been complex and often controversial. Opponents claim the amendment would create chaos in the nation's legal system and would result in women being drafted—an argument rendered moot by the recent end of the draft.

Montana State Sen. John K. McDonald, an opponent of the measure, argued during debate: "If Jesus wanted people to be equal, he would have had six men and six women apostles."

The amendment was passed by the Montana House of Representatives, killed by the Senate, revived on a technicality and tabled. Passage this session is considered unlikely.

One Of Hottest Issues

Legislative leaders in North Carolina said the issue was one of the hottest in this year's session. Rep. Willis Whichard, a Democrat who sponsored the measure in the state House, said of its chances: "Frankly, I think it could go either way."

Julia Miller, coordinator of a group of women's clubs working for the amendment, said: "I'm optimistic about its passage, but I don't think we are going to get it without a great deal of hard work."

A house committee in Georgia held hearings on the amendment Wednesday. Martha Gaines of Atlanta, representing the Georgia branch of the National Organization of Women, claimed opponents of the amendment were "playing on fears."

"This Is A Smokescreen"

"They're saying it would render impossible sexual privacy and it would do away with separate toilets," she testified. "This is simply not so. This is a smokescreen."

Idaho and Nebraska are considering rescinding ratification. The Idaho House Judiciary and Rules Committee held its first hearing on the resolution Monday and will decide Friday whether to hold another one. Nebraska legislators have fixed Feb. 22 for a public hearing.

The Connecticut House of Representatives rejected the amendment by an 83-77 vote last April, but House Speaker Francis Collins predicts it will pass this year. Rep. Audrey Beck, a Democrat who is leading the drive for approval, said the measure failed last year because of a "lack of information" about its seriousness.

Public hearings on the amendment are scheduled in South Carolina later this month. The state House approved it last year, but the measure never went to a vote in the Senate. Rep. Sherry Shealy, a Republican and an opponent of the legislation, predicted it might pass the House again by a close vote, but would be defeated in the Senate.

There is little hope the measure will be approved by Virginia, either. The House Privileges and Elections Committee killed the measure Tuesday, although it remained alive in the Senate.

Opponents contended the bill would deprive women of certain existing rights—exemption from the draft and support from a husband. Proponents argued the amendment would simply recognize women "as people."

Prospects Brighter

Prospects are brighter in New Mexico, where the amendment has been ratified by the House and is pending in the Senate. An equal rights amendment to the state constitution was approved by the voters last November by a 5-1 margin.

Voters in the State of Washington also approved a state equal rights amendment, but the vote was close. The Legislature held its first public hearing on the federal measure Wednesday night and supporters of the amendment said when the vote comes it will be close.

Oklahoma voters defeated the measure twice—last year and again last week. The two women in the state House were split.

Rep. Hannah Atkins was the principal sponsor of the measure. And Rep. Jan Turner was one of its strongest opponents. "I don't need an amendment to tell me I'm a human being," Mrs. Turner said.

Bridge: Public 'Real Losers' If Reporters Go Unprotected

Omaha (UPI) — Peter Bridge, a former Newark, N.J., newspaper reporter who was jailed for three weeks last October for refusing to divulge information to a grand jury, said Thursday the public will be the real loser if journalists' efforts to get shield laws from Congress are unsuccessful.

Bridge spoke at a press conference at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, as part of a seminar on "The Press and the First Amendment." He later joined three local newsmen in a panel discussion: David Thompson of the World-Herald; Dave Harner of KMTV, and Mick Rood of the Sun Newspapers.

Bridge had written a story quoting a Newark housing authority commissioner as saying a $10,000 bribe had been offered in connection with the selection of an executive to the authority. Shortly thereafter he was subpoenaed and gave information which appeared in the story, but refused to give other unpublished information to reveal his source.

Bridge said the jury was trying to produce evidence that the investigators had not uncovered.

He expressed that anything less than absolute immunity is not worth the trouble since reporters' stories have freed innocent people or reversed unjust rulings several times.

Court Asked To Overturn Noxious Weed Law

By The Associated Press
The Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday was asked to rule the state's noxious weed law unconstitutional because the law does not provide due process.

The request was made by Kate Whitehead of Loup City as she asked the high court to overturn a $1,339 judgment against her for the removal of musk thistles from her land by the Sherman County Weed Control Authority.

The law, passed by the 1965 Legislature as LB332, requires landowners to eradicate all "noxious" weeds from their property every year. If the landowner does not do the job, the local authority can eliminate the weeds and bill the owner.

The assessment against Mrs. Whitehead by the County Weed Authority was upheld by the state director of agriculture and the Sherman County District Court, the brief notes.

Law provides no due process hearings before the eradication proceedings and thus violates the 14th Amendment, attorneys for Mrs. Whitehead argue.

"Prior to the enforcement of weed eradication proceedings there is not provided an opportunity for a hearing to fine the property owners, an opportunity to argue whether or not there is a need for eradication proceeding, argue the cost or explain any extenuating circumstances surrounding," said the brief.

"Also, the method of hearing an appeal afterward is restricted only to the narrow issues of the charges for eradication and does not relate to whether or not the eradication procedures should have been instituted and any other issues that might arise."

Holstein Youth Arraigned On 3 Charges Of Burglary

A 17-year-old Holstein youth, Steven Ellery Springer, was arraigned Thursday in Lancaster County Court on three charges on burglary.

A preliminary hearing on the charges was set for Feb. 21. Bond was set at $2,000.

According to police reports the alleged burglaries occurred within an eight-day period.

Most recent, according to police reports, was the alleged theft early Wednesday morning of $1,000 worth of articles from United Supply and Rents, Inc., 2847 A.

The articles allegedly taken included a large number of watches and knives. Police said a safe and a pop machine were also damaged. Entry was gained by prying open a window, police said.

The other two alleged burglaries included the theft of a radio and a tape recorder burglaries included the theft of a radio and a tape recorder from the Fellowship Baptist Church at 849 So. 14th on Feb. 5 and the theft of change from the Mini Laundry at 1025 Q on Jan. 31.

Police said they recovered the tape recorder allegedly taken from the church and all the articles allegedly taken from United Supply and Rents.

Thompson Says He Won't Try To Head GOP

Lincoln public relations man Carroll Thompson Thursday said he will not be a candidate for Republican state chairman this year.

Thompson's name has been listed as among those in the party being considered for the post being vacated by Milan Bish of Grand Island.

Thompson was a candidate for chairman in 1971.

FBI, Police Nab Suspect Wanted For Bank Larceny

An investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Lincoln Police resulted in the arrest of a suspect Thursday wanted for a larceny at the City National Bank drive-in facility in Lincoln on Feb. 2.

The FBI identified the suspect as Eugene L. Shields, 22, of Omaha.

Special FBI agent in charge Fletcher D. Thompson said that Shields was arraigned Thursday on charges of violating the U.S. Code on a federal statute dealing with bank larceny.

After U.S. Judge Richard C. Peck conducted the arraignment, an attorney was appointed and a $3,500 cash or surety bond was set. Shields is being held at the Douglas County Jail in Omaha.

Preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 15 in Omaha.

Grand Jury To Quiz 7 Watergate Defendants

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH

Washington — The federal grand jury in the Watergate case said Thursday that all seven defendants would be ordered to appear before a grand jury in an attempt to "explore every conceivable avenue" of possible high-level Nixon administration involvement.

Thus far, however, he added, the government has been unable to develop any "hard evidence" implicating any other public official in the case.

In an interview, Earl J. Silbert, the principal assistant United States attorney who prosecuted the case, said that special attention would be paid to C. Gordon Liddy, described by the government as the ringleader of the political intelligence operation that led to the bugging attempt on the Democratic National Headquarters last year.

"Liddy will be asked every question that we can think of that will relate directly or indirectly to his involvement in the Watergate Case," Silbert said.

He said that the grand jury would be reconvened immediately after the sentencing of the seven defendants. Other sources said that the sentencing was not expected until early March.

Silbert added that he planned to call only the defendants before the grand jury, but would broaden the investigation if their testimony proved fruitful.

The interview, his first since the trial ended 10 days ago, came amid growing criticism over what some have called the prosecution's failure to in-

Action Seeking 500 Volunteers

Action, the parent organization of the Peace Corps and Vista, is seeking 500 volunteers in the Lincoln area, according to Steve Van Buskirk, recruiting officer.

Action representatives will be at the Lincoln Federal Building, 129 No. 10th, beginning Monday.

Recruiters are looking for volunteers to fill summer and fall, 1973, programs.

investigate fully whether high-ups in the Nixon administration were involved in the affair.

During the trial, which ended with the conviction of two defendants after five others pleaded guilty, Judge John J. Sirica repeatedly expressed dissatisfaction with the prosecution's limited questioning of some witnesses who were Liddy's colleagues at the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Sirica, chief judge of the U.S. District Court here, charged after the verdict that the trial had failed to get to the bottom of the case.

"I have not been satisfied, and I am still not satisfied, that all of the pertinent facts that might be available have been produced before an American jury," he said.

Meanwhile, Republican members of the Senate Thursday named Sen. Howard H. Baker to Tennessee, Edward J. Gurney of Florida, and Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut to the Senate's special committee to investigate the Watergate bugging case and the separate political espionage and sabotage allegedly conducted by Donald H. Segretti on behalf of White House officials.

The Senate voted 77 to 0 Wednesday to set up a seven-man Watergate inquiry panel led by four Democrats. "The Republicans have at least as much to gain in this investigation as the Democrats do," Baker told a reporter after his selection was announced.

N. Vietnam Aid To Cut Into Budget

Washington (AP) — Budget director Roy Ash said Thursday that it is "certainly the intention" of the administration to pay for any economic assistance to North Vietnam by making further cutbacks in regular programs at home and abroad.

In nearly four hours of congressional grilling in which one senator twice asked him to resign, Ash added, however, that "There's a long way between where we now stand and the prospect for funds" for reconstruction of the North.

Ash was repeatedly scolded by Democratic members of the Joint Economic Committee for domestic slashes already advanced by the White House. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., told him "I think you should resign" because of "direct and palpable conflict of interest" with his previous job as head of Litton Industries.

Ash denied time and again that his past affiliation with Litton would influence his decisions on defense appropriations. He said his holdings in Litton, a prime defense contractor, would all be sold by March 9, but when Proxmire asked if he could promise that he would not return to the firm, he replied, "That's an unfair request."

The stormy session followed Ash's appearance a day earlier before a Senate judiciary subcommittee, an equally heated affair in which he was accused of trying to spoon-feed Congress budget information and was warned not to circumvent a bid to force his confirmation by the Senate. Ash has been on the job only five days.

When Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., inquired as to what additional programs might be sacrificed to accommodate assistance to the Communists, Ash replied: "That decision has not been made."

But he confirmed that in any event it was "certainly the intention" of the administration to stick to an over-all spending lid of $268.7 billion.

Ash frequently turned to aides and referred to budget documents as he attempted to field dozens of queries over spending matters. Once, when he hesitated on a question about assistance in South Vietnam, Proxmire sprang forward in his chair and bellowed: "You're the budget director and you don't know what $2 billion is for?"

At another point, Proxmire declared, "I want to know if you know the number of poor people in this country." Ash deferred, but thumbed through a budget document to a page listing funds for indigent programs.

Bangladesh Makes Plea At NWU's Model U.N.

Bangladesh made a plea for admittance at the Thursday afternoon opening session of Nebraska Wesleyan University's tenth Model United Nations program.

Policy statements by a number of delegations made up the bulk of the first day's agenda.

According to secretary-general Joy Sandberg, approximately 150 students representing 70 delegate nations will participate in the program, which continues through Saturday afternoon.

Apartheid policies in South Africa, Palestinian refugees, war crimes and peace-keeping are the topics for this year's discussions, said Miss Sandberg.

She explained that the Security Council, for the first time, will consider a hypothetical world crisis situation and a proposal to admit Bangladesh, events that the real United Nations has not actually encountered.

Students from Boys Town and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln will also take part in the sessions.

Brightly-colored national flags—on loan from Bennett Martin library—added an air of authenticity to the model meeting of the general assembly, which was followed by bloc meetings of the delegate countries.

General Assembly sessions are also scheduled for Friday and Saturday afternoons in the C.C. White Building.

Blackledge, Ganzel Named Hearst Competition Finalists

Two University of Nebraska-Lincoln journalism students, Gene Blackledge and Bill Ganzel, are among 20 finalists in the William Randolph Hearst photojournalism competition.

The photo competition is part of the foundation's annual $63,550 Journalism Awards Program, consisting of six separate writing competitions and one photojournalism competition during a six-month period.

At the end of that time, championship finals are held in each division.

The NU School of Journalism now ranks second overall in the competition.

Judging in the semifinals photojournalism competition was based on student portfolios of four representative photographs in specified categories.

Next month, the schools will submit another portfolio of photographs taken by their student finalists.

Ten scholarships, ranging from $1,000 for first place to $100 for tenth place, will be awarded. Matching grants will go to the schools.

Results of the photojournalism competition will be announced the first week of April.

'BOOTY' A VERITABLE SUPERDOG

"Booty," a mixed breed dog who belongs to Micky Mewes, 1719 Sumner, will do anything to rescue one of his possessions, including climb a virtually verticle snow wall. The game began when the ball which belongs to Booty was placed on top of a snowman — and continued when friends decided to pile the snow higher to see just how high Booty would go — which proved to be about 8½ feet, which was as high as they could build the snow.

Clinton Releases 8 Names Filed For Omaha Court Slot

By United Press International

A list of eight attorneys who have filed for a vacancy on the Omaha Municipal Court bench was released here Thursday by Justice L. M. Olson of the State Supreme Court.

The vacancy was created by the retirement of Judge D. B. Anderson Feb. 1.

Included are attorneys Gene Meazell, Jon D. Abbott,

William S. Ryan and J. N. Lindquist, Frank S. Forbes, attorney and teacher John Guowski of the City Prosecutor's office and Thomas M. Kenney and Michael Levy of the Douglas County Public Defender's office.

The filing deadline is next Tuesday with a public hearing slated for Feb. 13 before the Judicial Nominating Commission.

Boy Scouts To Mark Anniversary

Cooking demonstrations, Indian dances and environmental displays will mark the 63rd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America in Lincoln Friday and Saturday.

Lincoln area Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers will celebrate the anniversary with demonstrations and displays in the Gateway Shopping Center mall this weekend.

Post 500 is scheduled to open the exhibition Friday evening with explanations and demonstrations of Indian dances, headresses, costumes and lore.

Fifteen scouts will explain the art of camp cooking without utensils and discuss camping recipes.

Exhibits of noxious weeds, plants and plant growth are to be featured in environmental displays.

"The celebration is to let the community know what Scouting does for a boy and what other children could be doing," Jim Cusik, activities committee chairman for the Cornhusker Council said.

More than 100 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers and 20 Scout leaders will take part in the program.

Scouts will receive credit towards leadership awards for their participation in the events.

"We want to give the boys the opportunity to become more at ease in the adult world. We want them to talk to people and let them explain what they are doing," Cusik said.

The displays and programs will begin Saturday at 10 a.m. and continue until 4 p.m.

Sanchell, 20, Found Guilty In Rape Case

A Lancaster District Court jury Thursday found a 20-year-old Lincoln man guilty of rape and three counts of robbery stemming from incidents involving University of Nebraska coeds.

Joseph Sanchell, of 229 No. 14th, who had pleaded innocent to the four charges, was charged with the alleged rape and robbery Jan. 22, 1972, of an 18-year-old coed and with robbery of two other coeds in Raymond Hall.

Judge Herbert Ronin deferred sentencing Sanchell pending motion for a new trial which was filed Thursday by Sanchell's attorney.

Group To Meet

The finance committee of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska will meet Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the Grand Island Room of the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, 33rd and Holdrege.

Teacher Prepared To Battle Partisan Unicam

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

An East High School economics teacher with roots in McCook, the home of George Norris, said Thursday he is prepared to lead a citizens campaign to defeat the proposal for a partisan Legislature if the issue reaches the ballot.

"There definitely will be organized opposition and, if necessary, I will head up the fight," Bill Harris said in an interview.

The proposal to place the issue on the 1974 ballot failed to win enactment in the Legislature by a single vote earlier this week, but another effort will be made to find the necessary 30 votes.

Harris was chairman of the Norris Day observance during Nebraska's centennial celebration, and was named as a pallbearer at the funeral of Mrs. George Norris last year.

Norris fathered Nebraska's non-partisan unicameral system, traveling the state by automobile in 1934 to personally campaign for its adoption.

"He drove from town to town and spent $750 in the effort," Harris noted. A similar low-key citizens effort to save the non-partisan system would be undertaken in 1973-74, if necessary, he promised.

Nebraska's Democratic and Republican Parties are expected to mount major campaigns to gain approval for the change if it is ultimately placed on the ballot.

Harris said he would accept contributions and "spend what is necessary" to take his message into each legislative district. The message will include "pointing out how each senator voted on the issue," he noted.

Harris said he agrees with Norris' contention that legislators "should not answer to any special interest group, and that includes the Republican Party and the Democratic Party, as well as railroads or banks or the telephone lobby."

Norris had "the idea of electing a small number of senators in a one-house legislature who would act as the board of directors of the Nebraska corporation."

"The people would be the stockholders, and the board, or the Legislature, would answer only and directly to the stockholders," Harris said he cannot understand the logic of those who argue that a legislator "would be more responsive to the people if he had to answer to a party."

The one-house legislature was "far ahead of its time" when it was adopted by Nebraska voters in 1934, Harris said. And now, just as the general public is "moving more toward political independence," the 1973 Legislature is considering a move toward partisanship.

"They are out of step," he suggested.

What would be more useful, Harris said, would be a renewed effort to "complete Senator Norris' plan."

"One part had not been adopted. He believed senators should have adequate pay so they could devote full time to their legislative duties."

"I personally think it would be more in keeping with the interests of the public if the legislators would try this aspect of the Norris idea so they would be less dependent on party politics and special interests, rather than more dependent."

"I would personally be interested in taking an active part in a drive to get this done. Then we would have the final model of the Norris idea and know how it works."

Sen. Proud sets Unicam target date.

Proud Hopes Hearings Finished By March 16

By The Associated Press

If speaker of the Legislature Richard Proud has his way, committee hearings on pending bills will be completed by March 16.

He announced the target date when pressed to do so by colleagues Thursday, and after being told that committee hearings presently are scheduled through March 15.

substantial developments attending a free-wheeling discussion of such subjects as the press, women's liberation, the Nixon administration's economy cutbacks, and the progress being made at the current legislative session.

Started With Resolution

It all began when Sen. W. H. Hasebrook of West Point pressed for adoption of his Resolution 13, protesting the impoundment by the Nixon administration of highway trust funds.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, a sometimes Republican but currently a Democrat, suggested that the Legislature would want to think twice before rapping the national administration of their own party.

There were objections also to a part of the resolution which denounces any diversion of highway trust funds from road construction to mass transit systems.

Sensing his resolution was in trouble, Hasebrook asked that the resolution be referred to a committee for public hearing and the request was granted.

"Half As Fast"

Sen. David Stahmer of

Omaha stood up then to wonder if the Legislature, although it has received only half as many bills as it did two years ago, isn't moving only about half as fast in processing bills on the floor.

Sen. Proud suggested that the fewer bills received allow "more time to deliberate and give the people a little better break." He suggested also there is a "distinct possibility" that daily television coverage of the sessions is extending floor discussion.

That prompted Omaha Sen. George Syas' question on the timetable for committee hearings and Proud's declaration of a March 16 target date for completion.

Editorial Criticized

On a point of personal privilege then, Proud arose to protest an Omaha World-Herald editorial which took note of South Dakota's having ratified the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to the U.S. Constitution.

Proud has sponsored a resolution to withdraw Nebraska's ratification, voted last year.

Proud said he considered awarding to the editorial writer a discarded bra from a "women's libber" for not mentioning that five other states — North Dakota, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Montana, Utah — have recently rejected ERA.

Carpenter got into the act with advice on how public officials should deal with the press. He said the media should be told: "Say what you want, but don't mis-spell my name."

Cold Shoulder Given Bill On Pollution Suits

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Omaha Sen. George Syas' LB195, which would allow citizen suits against the state for failure to abate pollution, was greeted with a polite but nonetheless cold shoulder Thursday by the Legislature's Agriculture Committee.

The committee took no action, but sensing the committee's chilly mood, Syas promised he would attempt to raise the bill on the floor of the Legislature.

"I can always read a committee, and I think I know what this one's going to do. But I don't think that'll end it," Syas vowed.

The veteran legislator pointed to the State Department of Environmental Control as proof of the need for LB195.

"They are doing a lousy job. And it isn't all their fault; the Legislature hasn't given them the tools they need to do a good job."

"Splintered"

"The law has splintered the enforcement of pollution standards among the cities, counties and state."

"The State of Tennessee tried this method. They found it was unworkable and have switched entirely to state control."

Syas charged that the current Environmental Control Council, which sets policy for the DEC, is weighted towards polluters — nine members represent various industries, two represent the general public.

"That council is loaded with vested interests. They're surely not going to control pollution."

Salt Creek Only

Frequently on his return trip to Omaha from Lincoln after a legislative day, Syas said he sees oil on Salt Creek near the Interstate.

"I see it, articles in the paper appear on it, but the DEC Director James L. Higgins says he can't see it."

"People shouldn't have to put up with this," he concluded.

LB195 as amended sets up procedures for citizen complaints on unchecked pollution sources. After a complaint is filed, the DEC would have 30 days to act on it by either ordering compliance or setting a public hearing. If the DEC took no action, the citizen would have recourse against the DEC in court. The action would not be aimed at the polluter.

The law is needed, a representative of the League of Women Voters said, because present law does not give the citizen the right to sue unless he can demonstrate personal injury or damage.

Failed To Pass

The bill is identical to the one introduced last year by Omaha Sen. Richard Proud which failed to pass.

Elmer Schlappoff, representing the Nebraska Stockgrowers Association and the Livestock Feeders Association, opposed the bill, saying it would lead to "harassment suits."

Higgins also spoke against the bill on the basis that consequential pollution problems can't be solved in 30 days. Current pollution abatement efforts are based on a compliance schedule which is three to five years for municipalities.

"If we're going to demand instant services, then let's do it across the board," Higgins said.

The DEC receives 30 complaints per month from the public, Higgins said, 75% of which are unfounded.

3 Other Bills

The committee also heard and held three other bills.

LB194, also backed by Syas, would limit municipal air pollution regulations to the city's limits. Current law allows cities to enforce standards within three miles of the city limits.

Syas said the bill was needed so that agricultural burning could go on within the three-mile radius in rural Douglas County.

City officials from Lincoln and Omaha appeared to oppose the bill.

LB86, which would require body fluid tests in auto fatalities, and LB337, a "housekeeping" measure for Natural Resource Districts, were also aired.

Open Meetings Law Change Generates Heavy Opposition

By The Associated Press

A move to tighten the provisions of Nebraska's open meetings law drew opposition at a public hearing Thursday from representatives of the University of Nebraska, State Public Service Commission, the Nebraska Natural Resources Commission and the City of Grand Island.

The legislature's Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee deferred until later a judgment on the bill at issue, Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers' LB219.

Present law provides generally that governmental bodies take formal action only at open, public meetings scheduled in advance, although executive sessions are allowed when formally voted.

The Chambers bill would require that briefings, discussions and formation of tentative policy also be reserved only for open meetings. It would allow executive sessions only for the purpose of discussion of real property purchase or sale, or discussion of personnel matters.

Chambers said the bill was prompted in part by action of the Omaha Housing Authority, which went into closed session to discuss the raising of rents, and only took formal action in open meeting.

The bill was supported by Gilbert M. Savary, news editor of the Lincoln Journal, who appeared in behalf of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, and as member of the Freedom of Information Committee of the National Newspaper Association.

Opposition witnesses generally supported the open meetings concept, but flawed the pending bill in its particulars, and generally asked that present law be left undisturbed.

Dr. Robert Koefoot of Grand Island, chairman of the NU Board of Regents, said there are sensitive areas — salaries, campus unrest, and disciplinary measures — which regents should be permitted to discuss in executive session. He noted that reporters already attend formal and informal meetings of regents, but said LB219 "hamstrings a public agency to the point where it can't honestly and intelligently represent the public."

Koefoot's position was supported by Warren Johnson of Lincoln, the university's attorney.

J. F. Minor, representing the Grand Island City Council, proposed removing the requirement for briefings and discussions at open sessions, and said the options for executive sessions are too

Action On Holidays Draws An Ovation

By United Press International

A standing ovation greeted a precedent-breaking action taken Thursday by a legislative committee when it unanimously voted to advance a bill to return Veterans Day and Memorial Day dates back to the original ones.

The ovation came from an estimated 200 representatives of the state's veterans organizations appearing to support the holiday change bill, LB34, during a hearing before the Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee.

The precedent-breaking action came on a suggestion from Sen. Steven Fowler of Lincoln when the committee decided to replace what appeared to be possibly hours of testimony with immediate action — the advancement vote.

Speaking at the time was Robert Lowry of Cairo, representing the Nebraska Veterans Council.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, chairman of the committee, broke into his testimony noting that committee hearing procedures allowed him to do so.

Then he said the committee had decided it wanted to act.

At that point, Fowler made his motion and the vote was recorded. The observers paused momentarily, then began applauding, with those not in wheel chairs standing up as the applause grew louder.

Park Fee Bill Advances

By The Associated Press

A legislative committee agreed Thursday that a user fee system would help upgrade the Nebraska state park system but decided to make sure the fees collected are used for only that purpose.

The Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee sent an amended version of LB255 to the floor.

Long a goal of backers of the state park system, LB255 is the product of an interim study and would provide a $5 annual permit and a $1 one-day permit for entrance and use of designated state parks and recreation areas.

There was no opposition to the bill at Thursday's public hearing and Willard Barbee, director of the Game and Parks Commission, said the estimated $640,000 raised by the fees would be used to upgrade the parks.

But Barbee declined to agree completely with the chief sponsor of LB255, Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood, who suggested that fees collected should go directly for improvement at those areas from which they are collected.

At Schmit's urging, the committee later adopted an amendment to the bill on a 5-1 vote, providing that the fees can be used only to improve areas from which the fees are collected, and not non-fee parks.

Salary Raise Killed

By The Associated Press
County officials seeking pay raises will have to go to their county boards rather than the Legislature, senators decided Thursday.

The decision came as legislators killed on a 26-14 vote a bill to raise the minimum salaries of county officials by more than 20%. The bill was killed on general file, the first stage of floor consideration.

As originally proposed, Axtell Sen. Gary Anderson's LB74 would have raised the minimum salaries by 29%, but the figure had been lowered to 21% by the time the bill was killed.

Following an unsuccessful attempt by Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh to amend the bill to permit county boards to set salaries, Anderson won 22-1 approval to limit the increases to 21%.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff then moved to kill the bill, arguing that it was not needed.

Minimum Set
Currently the minimum salaries of county officials are set by law but there is no maximum. Anderson has argued that about 20% of the state's 93 counties now pay the minimum while the others pay more, and said LB74 was needed to force increases among those 15 to 20 counties.

In attempting to amend the bill, a proposal which was eventually turned back 21-16, DeCamp argued that LB74 as written would force county budgets up six per cent.

Salaries comprise about 30% of the average county budget and thus the increases would mean six per cent increases in spending which would have to be financed by property tax increases, said DeCamp.

"A mill here and a mill there and you've got a millstone around people's necks," he said.

Termed Misleading
But Anderson contended DeCamp's figures were "seriously misleading" and said DeCamp's proposal had been "tried and rejected by the Legislature in the 1950's."

In moving to kill the bill, Carpenter noted Anderson's statement that only about 20% of the counties pay their officials the statutory minimum.

The matter is one for solution among the local officials and if county officials feel they are underpaid their salaries can be raised by the county boards, contended Carpenter.

Tax Break For Areas Is Killed

By The Associated Press
A proposed constitutional amendment permitting partial tax exemption on blighted areas was denounced in the Legislature Thursday as a windfall for real estate developers and land speculators.

Lawmakers responded by killing 34-4 the bill proposing the amendment.

Receiving the axe was Omaha Sen. Glenn Goodrich's LB72, which would have submitted to Nebraska voters next year a constitutional change allowing the Legislature to authorize partial property tax exemption for "obsolete, decadent or blighted areas."

Goodrich termed it a tool for redevelopment of such areas. He said Omaha now has three municipally designated blighted areas. He said the move would encourage developers to acquire title to such areas and redevelop them into usable housing areas.

But Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers termed the bill a godsend for speculators and developers. It would afford no relief to the impoverished home owner who can't pay taxes, he said.

Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield described the proposal as a "developers' paradise."

Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood, who made the kill motion, acknowledged that there is need for incentive to develop blighted areas, but factors other than a tax advantage are involved, he said.

Voting against the kill motion were Sens. Goodrich, Gary Anderson, of Axtell, Duke Snyder and David Stahmer of Omaha.

Guard Sent To Custer After Caravan Halted

Custer, S.D. (AP) — Gov. Richard Kneip ordered a 100-man unit of the South Dakota National Guard into the Custer area Thursday, a few hours after a 13-car caravan of American Indian Movement members and followers were turned back about 20 miles north of here.

Kneip who placed the National Guard on alert Tuesday after a bloody battle in downtown Custer, said he had ordered the unit into three undisclosed areas near the southern Black Hills community.

"I also have other Guard units on alert and assembled at Camp Rapid at Rapid City in case they are needed," the governor said. Rapid City is about 45 miles north of Custer.

Threatened Return
An AIM leader said Thursday after learning that the caravan of Indians had been turned away from Custer they would return at night.

The Indians were en route from Rapid City, 45 miles to the north, to Custer, site of Tuesday's battle between about 50 police and 200 Indians. Twenty six of the 36 arrested were charged Thursday with riot and arson in the melee that left at least eight persons injured and three buildings, including the court house, burned.

Dennis Banks, Minneapolis, national coordinator for AIM, said the Indians would return to Custer. "For every rifle on the street pointed at an Indian," Banks said, "I'm going to have 10 rifles aimed at a white man. Our people will return tonight."

Banks Returned

Banks, who was among the estimated 200 Indians involved in the battle, returned to Custer Thursday and turned himself in. He appeared in court, was charged with riot and two counts of arson and was released on $3,500 bond. Russell Means, another national AIM leader, is free on same bond.

Another of those arrested and charged is Sarah Bad Heart Bull, mother of Wesley Bad Heart Bull, 20, who was stabbed to death Jan. 21 outside a bar in nearby Buffalo Gap, S.D.

Tuesday's confrontation followed a request by AIM leaders that authorities stiffen the charge against Darl Schmitz, the accused slayer. Schmitz, 30, Buffalo Gap is charged with second degree manslaughter. AIM asked that the charge be changed to murder. The request was denied and the Indians tried to storm the county courthouse.

All Available

The South Dakota Highway Patrol asked all available law enforcement officers in the state Thursday to report to Custer. Patrol Capt. Arlo Mortimer said the message was sent at the request of Custer County Sheriff Ernest Pepin. The roadblock that turned the caravan back was near Hermosa on U.S. Highway 79.

Banks said he has a personal grudge against the judicial system in western South Dakota and against the police. Pointing to the armed officers cordoning off the block around the Custer city hall while other Indians were being arraigned, Means said: "These police officers are here for only one reason—to kill any AIM member."

He said of the arraignment proceedings, "It is especially ironic that the mother of Wesley Bad Heart Bull stands to do more time than the person who killed her son." Sarah Bad Heart Bull is charged with riot and two counts of arson, which carries a maximum sentence of 30 years in prison. The second degree manslaughter charge against Schmitz carries a maximum 10 years imprisonment.

Businesses Close

All Custer businesses were ordered closed about 2 p.m. (MST) by the sheriff. An official said the closing order was for Thursday afternoon only and "for everyone's safety."

Weapons were visible in almost every downtown business and one resident, who asked not to be identified, described the entire community of 2,100 as being "armed to the teeth." He said, "These people are scared stiff and they aren't going to tolerate any more of the kind of trouble we had here Tuesday."

Custer insurance agent Bob Kothe said several men had sent their families to stay with relatives in other parts of the state until the crisis passes.

The Indians have been working out of Rapid City, the state's second largest city with a population of 44,000. Rapid City Mayor Donald Barnett met with about 130 Indians Wednesday night and although jeered by some, he was cheered by many, including Banks.

Showed Courage

"We like him," Banks said Thursday of the 30-year-old Barnett. "He showed me courage, restraint and I think he impressed all the Indians there at the meeting. They feel he is at least making an effort to listen to the pleas of discrimination against Indian people and of Indian problems in general in this area."

Bond for Summerlin 43 was set at $5,000. Holsen 42 had his bond set at $7,000. Both men posted the bond money.

Ag Census May Be Key To Tax Forms Request

The Nebraska division of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics has no information on what the U.S. Department of Agriculture wants to use statistical data from farmers income tax forms for, but a spokesman for the office suggested the move to get the data may be related in some way to the agricultural census due this year.

Whatever its purpose, the move to examine farmers' income tax forms has met solid opposition from Nebraska farm leaders and appears to have come as a surprise.

"All I know about it is what I have seen in the papers so I don't want to issue a statement just now. I want to learn what they want the statistics for and what they intend to do with them," said John Klunker, president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation.

Flinker wondered if the move could be related in some way to future planning for farm programs.

Wesley Hanson, Nebraska Stockgrowers Association president, was surprised to learn of the income tax examination by USDA. "I should think USDA would have other and better means to get the data they need. Income tax information is supposed to be confidential and it ought to stay that way. I am sure our organization will oppose the move," he said.

Elton Berck, president of the Nebraska Farmers Union, also opposed the move and expressed concern over government moves to control the lives of people.

"I think it is a completely inexcusable violation of the right of the farmer to have his income information confidential," he said.

"I think we still need the census of agriculture. The USDA won't get the information they need from the tax system anyway. What I am getting concerned about is the move to control people's life from their date of birth until the day they are planted. I am dead set against that," he said.

Water Development Report Hit By Exon

Omaha (AP) — Nebraska Gov. J. James Exon told members of the Missouri River Basin Commission that a recently published federal report on U.S. water development to the year 2000 is based on "some disastrously erroneous assumptions."

Exon described as a "complete absurdity" a National Water Commission prediction that nine to 26 million acres of farm land could be withdrawn from irrigation without any effect on the nation's economy.

Another assumption which the governor said was erroneous is that there is a "perfect mobility of capital and labor" in the irrigated farm areas of the western United States.

He said this was a theoretical concept that "we know does not hold true in the real and dynamic world in which we live." The governor also took issue with the report for recommending that "all costs of irrigation should be recovered from the irrigators because the farmer is the only individual who achieves benefits of irrigation."

Exon said that University of Nebraska studies show that for each dollar invested in irrigation there is a return of $6.68 to the state's economy.

An irrigation project on the North Platte River, costing $22 million some years ago, has almost repaid its cost and is producing benefits worth an estimated $16 million a year, he said. "When we irrigate," he added, "we benefit the whole area."

Florida Men Plead Innocent In Money Theft

Beatrice (UPI) — Louis Summerlin of Houston, Tex., and Grady Holsen of Florida pleaded innocent in Gage County District Court here Thursday to a charge of stealing $232 from the Mennonite Hospital here.

The incident allegedly occurred Jan. 16. Bond for Summerlin 43 was set at $5,000. Holsen 42 had his bond set at $7,000. Both men posted the bond money.

Lincoln Woman Is Told 'To Try Clobbering' Son

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — Iowa Atty. Gen. Richard C. Turner this week offered advice to a Lincoln woman telling her she "ought to try clobbering" her son once in a while.

The woman had written state and federal officials, including President Nixon's office, questioning the treatment of her son by Pottawattamie County lawmen late last year.

Turner said the son had been arrested near Avoca for an overweight truck.

Turner said reports said the son was shown courtesy and thanked the officers for his treatment.

"Apparently when he got home he told Mamma a different story," said Turner, a Pottawattamie County native.

Turner's letter to the woman, a copy of which was sent to County Atty. Lyle Rodenburg, said:

"I am acquainted with the officers involved...and am frank to say I believe their version."

"I suppose that he (the son) is now too big for you to turn over your knee and spank, but he is obviously still a rascal and maybe you ought to try clobbering him once in a while instead of fighting all his battles for him."

Kyl Named To Interior Department

Washington (AP) — A former Republican congressman from Iowa has been nominated by President Nixon for a top appointment in the Interior Department.

Former Rep. John Kyl, R-Iowa, was nominated to the new position of assistant secretary for congressional and public affairs, a $36,000 job.

Kyl, 53-year-old Nebraska native, was defeated in a bid for re-election last November by Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa.

Pharmacy Fire 'Set By Addicts'

Omaha (AP) — A Nebraska Department of Health official has told a Senate subcommittee there is a chance that a local pharmacy was burned by drug addicts.

Rex Higley of Lincoln testified before the subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, saying drug addicts had an altercation with a pharmacist over a methadone prescription shortly before the pharmacy burned.

After his testimony, Higley declined to identify the pharmacy, and was reported to have said he had no proof that addicts burned it.

In testimony, Higley did not identify the pharmacy, nor say when the incident occurred. However, he said it was one of several altercations between addicts and Omaha pharmacists when addicts were allowed to take prescriptions for methadone to a pharmacy and get them filled.

The use of methadone prescriptions has been discontinued, and most heroin addicts using the synthetic narcotic to relieve withdrawal pains must now take the drug in the center where they are being treated.

Higley said the three Nebraska programs which involve methadone use are operating properly. He said there is little illegal use of methadone in the state.

He was one of seven Nebraskans testifying Thursday before the subcommittee chaired by Sen. Roman Hruska of Nebraska. The subcommittee is conducting hearings around the country. The hearings center on methadone programs.

Omaha Police Chief Richard Andersen also testified. He did not speculate on the fire which Higley mentioned. Andersen said the fire occurred more than a year ago, and said he could not remember details "off the top of my head."

Evidence: Gas Cost Will Rise

Omaha (AP) — Evidence that the cost of natural gas is expected to increase in the near future has been presented to the Metropolitan Utilities District (MUD) board of directors.

Ben C. Altman, general superintendent of gas operations for MUD, outlined a plan by Northern Natural Gas Co. to extract gas from coal.

Northern requested from MUD, and from its other retail customers, written approval to proceed with the project. Northern also is asking MUD and other retailers to support, before the Federal Power Commission, increases in rates to help pay for research and development, Altman said.

Altman said Northern wants to join Cities Service Gas Co. in preliminary development of a coal gasification project.

Over a three-year period, from 1973 through 1975, the companies would spend $5.5 million each to acquire coal reserves and for engineering work, among other things.

Altman said the project would be aimed at security rights to about one billion tons of coal in Wyoming and Montana, enough to supply plants producing 250 million cubic feet of gas a day. The coal reserves, he said, would be equivalent to about 10 trillion cubic feet of natural gas reserves.

Altman said each coal gasification plant would cost $350 million. Another $100 million to $200 million would be needed for a pipeline to transport the gas to Northern and Cities Service systems.

Altman's recommendation that MUD approve Northern's project was referred to a committee.

Gretna Man Dies After Shooting

Gretna (UPI)—A shooting incident early Thursday claimed the life of a rural Gretna man, Wallace H. Scheef, 48.

The Sarpy County sheriff's office said the body was discovered in the basement of his home three miles south of here by a son. A 410 single action shotgun lay beside the body.

The sheriff's office said the investigation was continuing as to whether it was an accident or a possible suicide.

Scheef died en route to county hospital in Omaha and was not able to tell officers anything before he died. An autopsy was scheduled.

Second Hospital Bond Vote Set

Valentine (UPI) — A March 28 date has been set for the Cherry County Hospital bond issue election by the county commissioners. The $975,000 issue calls for a 38-bed unit consisting of 32 general patient beds and two each intensive care beds, obstetric beds and pediatric beds. The City Council has turned over 16 1/2 acres to the hospital board as a site. A similar bond issue was defeated by voters last year.

Road Improvement Plan OK'd

Falls City (UPI) — The Richardson County Board of Commissioners has approved a highway improvement program for this year which provides for replacing 12 obsolete bridges at a cost of $359,000. The board also okayed a six-year program calling for the replacement of 31 bridges at a cost of $1,026,000. A majority of the projects will be eligible for federal matching funds on a 50-50 basis.

Suit Filed Against Hospital

Omaha (UPI)—Mrs. Deborah Trusler of Omaha has filed a $300,000 suit in Douglas County District Court against the Lutheran Medical Center due to the death of her husband, John Mitchell Trusler Sr. died Feb. 16 of last year after falling from a bed in the hospital. The suit charges the hospital with negligence.

More Cattle On Nebraska Farms

The number of cattle on Nebraska farms increased last month, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported. The number of cattle Jan. 1 totaled 6,915,000, up two per cent from the figure on the previous Jan. 1. Beef cows were up two per cent to 2,112,000 head while milk cows declined one per cent to 168,000. The 1972 calf crop is estimated at 47,889,000 head, two per cent more than the 1971 total.

Pioneer Farm Families' Event To Continue

Omaha (UPI)—Ak-Sar-Ben announced Thursday for the 18th year it will continue its program to recognize Nebraska pioneer farm families whose land has been owned by the same family for 100 years or more. A total of 803 farm families in 44 counties have been honored in the past at various county fairs. A banquet honoring the families will be held in Omaha during the annual Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock show and rodeo, Sept. 21-29.

Film Shooting Starts Next Month

Holdrege (AP)—Shooting of "My Son, My Son", a film version of the book by the same title by Holdrege author Bernard Palner, will begin about March 1, producer Heinz Fursle announced.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Meet

Fremont (UPI)—Fremont has been chosen the site of a two-day circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses, according to Harlan Haupt, local presiding overseer. Approximately 1,500 delegates are expected for the event to be held Saturday and Sunday at the City Auditorium.

Study On Movement Of Grain To Continue

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

The Nebraska Wheat Utilization Committee has asked Frank Johannsen of Bayard to continue his study of the grain transportation problem in an effort to locate bottlenecks in the nation's grain export system.

Johannsen told the committee that a major part of the problem was related to the quantity of grain being moved. "The railroads are being asked to move several years' crop at once. You usually have enough of a problem trying to move a single year's crop, but we are trying to move more than two billion bushels of grain in addition to this year's crop. I doubt that we are going to make it by harvest time," he said.

Johannsen suggested that the government could help solve the problem by extending farm storage loans to help farmers do a more orderly job of marketing. "Now everyone is trying to sell their grain at the same time. Many elevators are unable to buy grain they have stored in their own buildings," he said.

Johannsen said the grain handling system was simply inadequate to handle the job. "There are not enough rail cars there are not enough export elevators, and there were some political and labor problems involving lengthy discussions before the grain could be moved. It was and still is a very complicated set of problems that is making it difficult to get the grain moved," he said.

Dr. Don Hanway, chairman of the NU Department of Agronomy and head of a committee studying grain storage and transportation problems also reported to the committee.

"It is now apparent that the present load on the transportation system will not be cleared by wheat harvest time and the wheat harvest load will not be cleared in time for the corn-soybean harvest in the fall. We are advising farmers to be sure that they have adequate storage on their farms or have it secured in commercial storage because it is unlikely they will be able to move it at harvest time," he said.

Hanway also suggested that farmers develop management skills involved in harvesting and storing grain.

"They need to have adequate facilities, and know how to manage them. There is a lot of grain in the country that may spoil because of inadequate storage facilities or because facilities are being inadequately managed," he said.

Dr. C. Anderson Dies; Father Of S. Korea Extension Service

Beatrice (AP) — Dr. Charles A. Anderson, father of 4-H clubs and extension service in South Korea, died Wednesday night in a local hospital. He was 78, and had been ill for some time.

Dr. Anderson was a retired U.S. Army colonel. He began organizing 4-H clubs and extension services for Koreans as military governor of Kyonggi Province from 1946 through 1948.

He returned to Seoul shortly after the Korean conflict broke out.

In 1952, he was cited by the South Korean government for his "outstanding contributions for the relief of needy Korean children," while working as military attaché to the U.S. Embassy in Seoul.

Following his retirement in 1954, he returned to Korea under the auspices of the American-Korean Foundation. In 1958 he was attached to the Office of Coordinator, United Nations Command, to continue the 4-H and extension service work.

He was credited with organizing clubs which brought some 300,000 Koreans into 4-H and extension work.

Dr. Charles A. Anderson

He was responsible for efforts which sent American cattle to South Korea for livestock improvement there.

"The people there had practically no livestock left after the war," he recalled in a 1965 interview.

"Some of them managed to drive a few head of cattle ahead of the retreating troops, but not many survived," Anderson said. "There was a group of Seventh Day Adventists who managed to save 37 milk cows. That was about it."

In 1965 he was named a Partner in 4-H by the Federal Extension Service.

In 1971, the Korean 4-H Club Committee published a 20-page pictorial booklet which was devoted to Dr. Anderson's work.

He was an artillery officer in World War I and commanded an anti-aircraft battalion in World War II prior to his service in Korea.

A dentist, he was a graduate of Midland College and Creighton University.

Survivors include his widow, Marilyn, and two daughters.

Funeral services were pending.

Dr. Anderson also was a well-known breeder of Black Angus cattle.

In 1968, he was cited by the Nebraska Angus Association. He spent more than 15 years in Korea.

He received dozens of civilian and military honors, including an honorary doctorate of laws from Chungang University in Seoul.

CYNTHIA JOHNSON

Currently being featured at Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery is a display entitled "Jewelry," by J. Fred Woell of Cambridge, Wis. Mr. Woell might be described as an arch-pessimist with a "black" sense of humor, and he describes his "comic strip" jewelry as "anti-jewelry."

Woell calls his work anti-jewelry because it lacks the pretentious exhibition of technique, craftsmanship, precious metals and rare gems, which usually give jewelry its value. The artist prefers to have the viewers judge the work on its aesthetic merit alone, without concern for the value of the materials used.

Among the items, are several pins which, when not being worn, can be placed on bases and used as small sculptures. Other pins come in wooden frames which make them resemble small framed pictures or medals.

Several pendants are displayed in the jewelry exhibit, and one, entitled "Three Wheeler," is made of plastic wheels like those contained in model car kits. Woell has cast the wheels in bronze, arranged them in a triangular shape, and suspended them from a narrow strip of leather. He has used the same idea to form a set of bronze wheel cuff links.

A number of Woell's silver spoons with bronze handles also are on display. The handles are made by pouring bronze into plastic molds, and the designs vary from a bride and bridegroom on one spoon, to an airplane propeller on another.

Woell's display will be exhibited at Sheldon Gallery's Art Shop through Sunday, Feb. 8.

A CZECH MUSIC FESTIVAL... complete with a Polka Party, is scheduled this weekend at Nebraska Wesleyan University. Concert programs will begin at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 9 and 10, in the O'Donnell Auditorium, with the Polka Party in the NWU Campus Center following Friday evening's concert. Included on the program for Friday's concert will be Anton Reicha's "Woodwind Quintet, Op. 88 No. 2," "Suite for Flute and Piano" by Vaclav Nelhybel, Franz Krommer's "Concerto for Two Clarinets, Op. 35," and "Dumky Trio" by Antonin Dvorak. Saturday evening's program will be highlighted by Bedrich Smetana's "Sonata in One Movement" for two pianos; Bohuslav Martinu's "Sonata No. 3 for Cello and Piano"; "Sonata for Organ" by Jaromir Weinberger; "Concertino" by Leos Janacek, and "Gypsy Songs, Op. 55" by Antonin Dvorak.

THE LINCOLN ARTISTS' GUILD... will sponsor an exhibit of oil and acrylic paintings by Maureen Biggerstaff, which will be displayed in the lobby of the Cengas building through Wednesday, March 7.

THE BIENNIAL EXHIBITION... of works by graduate students in the Department of Art at the University of Nebraska will be on display through Sunday, Feb. 11, at Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery. The exhibition will include pottery, abstract paintings, sculptures and examples of other art forms.

NWU ELDER GALLERY... will feature the works of two Concordia College art professors from Sunday, Feb. 11, through Sunday, March 4. Included in the display will be paintings by William Wolfgram and sculptures by Donald Dynneson. Also, at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 18, the Gallery will feature a concert by the Wesleyan Chamber Players. Among those composers, whose works will be performed, are Rachmaninoff, contemporary French composer Jean-Michel Damase, Beethoven and Franz Strauss.

THE 85TH BIRTHDAY... of the Nebraska Art Association will be celebrated when the Guthrie Theater comes to Lincoln on Tuesday evening, March 13, to perform John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" at the Kimball Recital Hall. The evening's festivities will begin with a pre-theater buffet, and a cast party at the Sheldon Art Gallery will follow the play presentation. Reservations may be obtained by contacting Mrs. George R. Day, 5048 Valley Road, Lincoln, Neb. 68510.

CURTAIN CALL... THE DANCING DONKEY... presented by the Theater Arts For Youth and the Nebraska Wesleyan University speech and drama department, will be staged in the NWU Loft Theater on Friday and Saturday evenings, Feb. 9 and 10, at 7 p.m. Matinee performances will be held at 2 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 10 and 11.

THE FINAL PERFORMANCES... of "Napoleon," a new opera by Robert Beadell, will be held at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 9 and 10, at the Kimball Recital Hall.

McGINNESS AND McGINNIS... an exhibit of printmaking and ceramics by members of the Department of Art, Fort Hays Kansas State College, will be on display through Friday, March 2, at the Hastings College Gallery of Art.

Opti-Mrs. Project

The Lincoln Opti-Mrs. Club will undertake the project of creating nutcrackers and Valentines for the residents of the area nursing homes following the organization's luncheon which will take place at the home of Mrs. Robert Camp on Friday afternoon, Feb. 9.

The project, named "Do It Yourself," will follow the 12 o'clock luncheon for which the assisting hostesses will include Mrs. Marie Weikert, chairman, Mrs. Sophia Davidson and Mrs. Gracie McPherson.

Handwriting Is The Key

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON

According to California graphoanalyst, Evelyn Groves Budd, a person's handwriting provides "a total picture of his or her physical, mental and emotional make-up." For this reason, graphoanalysis—or, more simply stated, handwriting analysis—may be of great value in enabling individuals to know themselves better and to understand their reactions to various stimuli.

Mrs. Budd and her husband, Frank G. Budd, who is also a trained graphoanalyst, were in Lincoln Thursday under the sponsorship of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. During their stay in Nebraska, they spoke to insurance agents from Lincoln and Omaha, and their wives, in addition to conducting individual counseling sessions.

Defining graphoanalysis as "a subjective psycho-diagnostic test much like the Rorschach ink-blot test," Mrs. Budd went on to note that it serves to measure an individual without comparison to a norm. It provides indicators about a subject's personality in the areas of emotional response, mental processes, functional capacity (ambition, determination, enthusiasm), fears and aptitudes.

A person's behavior, Mrs. Budd stated, is, to a great extent, influenced by fears that are established during the childhood years. In order to allay these fears, the individual may begin to rely on other people for reassurance (i.e., attention, approval, love, etc.). As a result, the person attempts to behave in a way that will bring positive reactions from those around him, and his own true identity is suppressed.

The man or woman caught in this situation is, in effect, "living off others," and is unable to function effectively on his own. According to Mrs. Budd, an excellent example of this is provided by the mother who, for years, does things for her children in return for their affection and approval. When they are grown and are no longer available to provide her with the reinforcement she needs, she undergoes a crisis. Never having established an identity apart from her children, her existence ceases to have any meaning for her.

By enabling the individual to understand what his or her subconscious fears are, handwriting analysis may help the person overcome them. From this point, he or she can go on to develop an individual identity based on more positive personality attributes.

Mrs. Budd emphasized that graphoanalysis is a scientific approach which is utilized by a number of psychologists, and by business firms interested in increasing the effectiveness of their employees. It is also used, in some cases, to aid businesses in personnel selection, and to assist educators in dealing with retarded or problem children. "We use graphoanalysis to help people, not to entertain them," Mrs. Budd said.

In examining a person's handwriting, Mrs. Budd explained that graphoanalysts look primarily at the strokes, and, to a much lesser extent, at the pressure applied. In analyzing the strokes, such factors as size and the direction of the slant are taken into consideration; and on this basis, over 200 personality traits can be recognized. However, she added, it is necessary to look at the whole picture—to examine each trait as it relates to all the others—in order to analyze an individual's handwriting effectively.

A person's handwriting does not always remain the same, observed Mrs. Budd. It may change—quite rapidly in some cases—as an in-

Training in graphoanalysis is available at the International Graphoanalysis Society headquarters in Chicago. Upon completion of an 18-month course, trainees attend a week of seminars, after which they must pass a series of tests in order to receive certification. Over 30,000 students have been certified in this fashion.

In addition to graduating from the International Graphoanalysis Society, Mrs. Budd has studied with Paul de Sainte Colombe, a psychographologist who is a consultant on the staff of the Neuropsychiatric Institute at the University of California School of Medicine in San Francisco. She and her husband reside in Sherman Oaks, Calif., and spend a good deal of time lecturing and counseling with clients throughout the United States.

Lincoln is becoming as well known in the south, the west and the southwest in the winter, as it is at a variety of lake and mountain resorts in the summer. Nebraska winters send numerous residents of our town to Florida, to Arizona, and to various warm spots in California. We're already counting the weeks until spring when we can talk about all of those homecomers.

In addition to the influx of homecomers there are to be some guests, so we hear.

Cdr. (Ret.) Philip Warren, USN, and Mrs. Warren, the former Louise Wilson, have plans for a visit in Lincoln, come spring. At the moment Cdr. and Mrs. Warren doubtless are saying "hello" to some familiar faces that are becoming sun-tanned in La Jolla, Calif.

But here at home no one is holding his breath until the first balmy breeze makes itself known. Activity is far from a standstill.

And some of that activity is planned for Saturday evening when the members of the Holiday Club will be dining and dancing at the Lincoln Country Club, and it doesn't take much guessing to know that the party theme involves St. Valentine's Day.

The committee in charge of the arrangements includes Mr. and Mrs. James Lantz, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Giles Henkle, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Glandt, and Adm. (Ret.) and Mrs. Thomas Donovan.

Party guests will be Mrs. Fritz Teal and Mrs. O. J. King.

Friday, Feb. 9, 1973 The Lincoln Star 13

Every year on Valentine's Day, we discover the opportunity to express our love and friendship to those for whom we care. Thank goodness for this special day which enables us to reflect upon those we love and then display our appreciation and affection through cards and gifts.

Of course, every gift should reveal the personality and feelings of the person presenting the gift, who must also keep in mind the likes and dislikes of the one who is receiving it. Often this is a difficult task, so this week "on a tour of the shops" will offer a few helpful suggestions for that special item.

AT TYRELL'S FLOWERS AND HOUSE OF ORIGINALS

It has become a tradition that flowers be given on Valentine's Day, but that does not mean that giving flowers and plants has to be monotonous — and it certainly is not when one shops at Tyrell's Flowers and House of Originals, where they constantly are coming up with innovations in the art of floral arrangements.

ROSES, ROSES AND TULIPS! The biggest attraction on Valentine's Day is, of course, the rose. Whether the sweetheart or American Beauty is arranged in a large bouquet of one or two dozen, or a single rosebud in a vase, the delicate beauty of the rose needs no other decoration to enhance its elegance. However, we also discovered at Tyrell's the latest innovation of the imported tulip which, although a simple flower, claims the brightest and deepest shade of the rose.

The tulips are incorporated in floral arrangements featuring a variety of spring flowers and potted tulip plants also are sold.

THE LOVE BUNDLE. One of the primary Valentine bouquets at Tyrell's is the "Love Bundle" which is a white filigree compote, with a red liner, containing an attractive bouquet of white orchid pompon chrysanthemums, pink carnations and red tulips. Highlighting the arrangement are two kissing cherubs of white ceramic, centered under a red, chenille heart.

THE ASSORTED SPRING BOUQUET: Springtime can suddenly bloom in February, when the assorted spring bouquet is presented as a gift on Valentine's Day. This colorful assortment of flowers can lift one's spirits at merely a glance and it is composed of Wedgewood iris, daisies of various shades, jonquils, cornflower, narcissus, gypsophila, tulips, heather, gladioli, pompon chrysanthemums and carnations.

A DOUBLE FEATURE: Now at Tyrell's you can send candy along with those roses or spring bouquets. A large display of House of Bauer Chocolats is featured at the shop so that you may select from a variety of candies, including Bavarian mints, party mints, and peanut butter-and-peanut-filled chocolates.

OTHER GIFT IDEAS: Gifts that will last a long time are the blooming, potted plants at Tyrell's, which are sold in brightly foil-covered pots, decorated with large, gingham-checked bows. Accessories for plants and floral bouquets include velvet hearts pierced by Cupid's arrow, tufted, velvet Valentines outlined with a white, plastic lace, or miniature dolls, which are dressed in red and display Valentines with the messages "Love" or "To My Valentine."

Another gift idea is the snifter containing a Cymbidium orchid, and still other displays feature artificial floral arrangements in wicker baskets or brightly colored straw hats.

One of the hats is wide-brimmed, and in a bright green shade. The hat is turned upside down, so that the crown becomes the floral container. The actual bouquet consists of lavender iris, blue forget-me-nots and light yellow fruit blossoms. The unique color combination is additionally highlighted by a bow of narrow, purple ribbon.

Perhaps, more in the Valentine motif is a red straw hat, used in the same manner. The bouquet includes, among other flowers, bright red poppies and deep red roses, and the kissing cherubs centered beneath a white chenille heart are again used in this arrangement.

AT SARTOR HAMANN'S

One of the best ways to constantly remind your Valentine of your affection is through a timepiece from Sartor Hamann, where we learned that the world of watches is currently undergoing an exciting revolution.

QUARTZ CRYSTAL, which is used to regulate time, is employed in more and more of the better watches these days, and that transistorized method just may be used in all watches in the years to come. In the transistorized quartz timepieces there are no moving parts and, therefore, there is little wear on the working mechanism. As one of the primary features, these revolutionary watches are reputed to be extremely accurate — in fact, the best of the streamlined watches will lose less than one minute per year.

THE PULSAR WATCHES feature a button which, when pushed, promptly reveals the correct time on the dial — and the seconds are allowed to tick off in a fashion resembling the popular digital clocks. And Pulsar watches now are being manufactured with constantly lighted dials.

While the quartz crystal and Pulsar watches still are currently for men only — the timepieces and parts are much too large for ladies' watches, at this time there is a variety of tuning fork watches — which are recommended for the woman in your life.

FOR THE LADIES, we recommend the tuning fork watches which are in the fashion spotlight. They are larger than most women's watches, but then that is the fashionable look this year. The tuning fork watches are battery-operated, and will run perfectly if the battery is changed once a year. Other outstanding watches for ladies include those from the highly styled Christian Dior Boutique collection, as well as the sterling silver bracelet watches which were fashioned in Belgium.

Colored stones, particularly tiger eye and lapis, also is featured as dials for the fashionable gold-filled bracelet watches for the ladies. And, just for fun, we recommend the plastic and lucite timepieces.

DINNER RINGS for your Valentine will be much larger this Feb. 14. At Sartor Hamann's we found one outstanding diamond ring which displays varying shades of natural colored diamonds — hues of cinnamon, golds, and greens are featured in this dazzling ring. And another features an atomically-bombarded diamond in the cinnamon tone which is surrounded by rows and rows of white diamonds.

By the way, treating precious diamonds, as well as the use of natural colored diamonds, is one of the newest trends in fine jewelry. The atomic bombardment of the stones is used to create shades of cinnamon, blue, and green — and there also is a new process for treating, through the use of laser beams, diamonds which are found to have black inclusions.

We also learned at Sartor's that the general trend in rings is toward the larger size — and with antiqued and textured finishes, including the French gold, as well as varying shades of gold.

AT LATSCH'S

Writing letters and notes to friends and loved ones still is a favorite pastime — so why not surprise your Valentine with a gift of stationery?

POSTALLETES, those one-piece letter and envelope combinations which are sealed with adhesive stamps, are perfect for those short letter occasions, and Latsch's has a variety of the handy, all-purpose ensembles. One of our favorites is ornamented with a ticking and rickrack motif — and is sealed with a darling ladybug, but then there are many, many more styles from which to choose.

NOTES, BOTH DELICATE and bold, also may be found at the stationery shop, and they are embossed with flowers, ladybugs, owls, and mushrooms — practically every design imaginable, as well as the favorite Peanuts characters.

Bridge: test your bidding

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
3♣	4♦	Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠ J8653 ♥ 742 ♦ J84 ♣ 92
2. ♠ 84 ♥ KQ6 ♦ J872 ♣ J1093
3. ♠ KQ972 ♥ J8 ♦ KJ74 ♣ 53
4. ♠ KJ863 ♥ KQ94 ♦ Q5 ♣ 72
5. ♠ AQ874 ♥ KQ76 ♦ K952 ♣ —

1. Three spades. The situation is unpleasant, but you're not responsible for holding this sad collection of cards at a time when partner has a good hand and forces you to respond.

It would be wrong to pass. The chance of defeating three clubs is mighty slim, and a pass is therefore out of the question. Partner's double is basically for takeout, and all you can sensibly do is obey him and bid your best suit.

2. Pass. Here it is probably best to pass for two reasons. First, you expect to beat three clubs. You have two probable defensive tricks and partner is likely to take at least three.

Second, the alternative bids of three diamonds or three notrump are not likely to produce a larger plus than three clubs doubled, and, in fact, they might even produce a minus score for your side. A pass is therefore apt to work out best in the long run.

3. Four spades. The double of a preemptive bid is nearly always based on a better-than-average opening bid, and it is therefore probable that 10 high-card points in conjunction with a good five-card suit will produce a game. Three spades would be totally inadequate.

You have very good values and should acknowledge them in unequivocal terms.

4. Four clubs. Game is

practically certain, but at this point you don't know whether spades or hearts would be the better trump suit. The safest response is consequently a cuebid in clubs. If partner responds in a major suit, you pass. If he bids four diamonds, you then bid four spades.

5. Four clubs. The cuebid is used here also, but this time it's for real, that is, you actually have first-round control. Obviously, you mustn't settle for less than a small slam in the suit partner chooses as trump. Whichever one he selects, you can afford to bid clubs again (to show actual first-round control) and then raise him to six. In effect, you will be strongly inviting partner to bid seven.

ABBY: it's yourself you hate

DEAR ABBY: This is a terribly upsetting problem. My husband and I were divorced a few years ago, and he has since remarried. It was an ugly, bitter-filled divorce.

Our 23-year-old daughter is being married, and she wants her Dad at the wedding. My utter contempt for him is so overwhelming that I cannot bear to be anywhere near where he is, and I do not wish to be a part of the ceremony if he is in it. I fear that my hatred for him will throw a pall over an occasion that should be happy and hate-free.

I wish I could control this feeling, but I can't. My daughter is unhappy as she wants us both there, but Abby, there is just no way I can look at that man with anything but contempt. And yet, I feel I MUST make myself go for my daughter's sake. Please, what should I do?

HATING MYSELF

DEAR HATING: That's your problem. You "hate" yourself for being unable to handle your feelings about him. Get yourself together as strikingly beautiful as you can, and yes, fine yourself up an attractive escort, put a smile on your face, and go, lady. You might just surprise the daylight out of yourself and have a wonderful time.

DEAR ABBY: With all the letters in your column lately about dental care, I have something to ask you related to that subject.

What do you think about a woman who always carries a toothbrush and toothpaste in her purse so she can brush her teeth right after she eats, no matter where she is? This can be in a restaurant or in somebody's house.

When she's thru eating, out comes the toothbrush and paste, even if some of us are still eating, and she makes a big thing of excusing herself to go brush her teeth.

NAUSEATED
DEAR NAUSEATED: It's good for her teeth, but not for your stomachs. I hope this fastidious lady also carries a good strong disinfectant with which to clean the sink afterwards.

Some Parks Board Fee Increases Questioned

A delegation of about 20 people Thursday questioned some of the fee increases proposed for the various City recreation programs.

After a public hearing, the Parks and Recreation Board empowered a subcommittee to decide on the following recommendations:

—Youth class fees to be based upon 50% of the cost of instruction and material furnished for the class.

—Adult class fees to be based upon 80% of the cost of class instruction and materials.

—The proposed team entry fee to be based upon the cost of officials and trophies for league play.

In the past, team entry fees for softball, volleyball and football paid about 45% of the cost.

Under the proposed plan, the entry fees for team play in 1973 would pay 65% of the cost, for 1974, 85% of the cost and for 1975, 100% of the cost.

For example, the present team entry fee for women's volleyball is $20, with the cost of the program totaling $48.90.

The department is recommending that in 1973, the fee be $31.79, $41.57 in 1974, and $48.90 in 1975.

People appearing at the hearing contended that the increased team entry fees would push people away from the program.

Wayne Gonyea suggested that the cost of the programs could be dropped by eliminating the number of officials used during the games and by limiting the number of trophies awarded in tournament play.

Although not deciding the fee issue, the board did increase the maintenance charge for use of Camp Wilderness.

The rental fee will be $25 per day or $150 per week. When the Boy Scouts operated the camp, the fee charged was $100.

Director of Parks and Recreation Don Smith pointed out that the $50 increase still will not cover maintenance costs.

In other business Superintendent of Parks Dick Hilligus said that the Park Ranger Patrol reported $192 in vandalism and property damage in the city parks during the month of January.

Caspar Weinberger

Weinberger Is Approved By Senators

—The New York Times

Washington — The Senate completed approval of President Nixon's new Cabinet Thursday by confirming the nomination of Caspar W. Weinberger to be secretary of health, education and welfare.

But 10 Senate Democrats voted against Weinberger's confirmation as an angry, gesture of protest over the administration's spending priorities. The vote on the nomination was 61 to 10 (Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., voted with the majority.)

Sens. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts expressed doubt that Weinberger could serve the interests of the poor, aged and unschooled in his new post.

Antipoverty Agencies Head Meeting Agenda

The status of the Office of Economic Opportunity and Lincoln Action Program (LAP) strategy on the future of antipoverty agencies heads the agenda Monday for new business at LAP's monthly board meeting.

The meeting is to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the 15th floor of the Lincoln Center Building.

Other agenda items include an evaluation report on the executive director, committee work sessions and a discussion of legislation.

17th St. Widening Proposal Is Described By Obering

Public Works Director Bob Obering outlined Thursday the proposed widening of 17th from K to R.

The $230,000 project would widen 17th from 40 to 50 feet. Construction could get under way as early as June if federal funds are approved, with completion possible by October.

Obering noted that no additional right-of-way land acquisition will be necessary and that construction will not necessitate the relocation of any buildings or people.

In addition to widening the present roadway, construction of a separate right turn lane is proposed for L between 17th and 18th.

Also proposed, is reconstruction of six intersections on 16th between M and R.

The widening will provide four-lane traffic with lanes of 12.5 feet.

In a report to the Federal Highway Administration on the project, Obering noted that the purpose of the project "is to increase the safety, efficiency and traffic carrying capacity of 17th and to provide adequate drainage in the area."

Housing Authority Commissioners Told Federal Cutback Temporary

Lincoln Housing Authority commissioners were told Thursday that federal cutbacks in funding for housing projects are only temporary.

Authority Director Virg West said that Lincoln is continuing with plans for another 600 housing units.

In other business Executive Director Dick Burke reported that the Havelock High Rise apartments for the low income elderly should be completed by June—instead of August, as originally scheduled.

Burke also reported that 111 of the planned 120 scattered site houses are completed, with 98 now occupied.

In addition, he said that 309 units at Arnold Heights are now sold.

The authority also unofficially opposed LB273 which would require that low income tenants be placed on the local housing authority through a petition drive.

such appointments to the mayor.

In addition, Donald Parker was seated on the housing board.

KENWOOD STEREO SYSTEM AT BETTER THAN SUPERMARKET PRICES

Supermarket prices are nothing to cheer about . . . in Lincoln or anywhere else for that matter. But the price on this particular Kenwood system is something to cheer about. The Kenwood 2200 AM/FM Receiver won't blow the walls off a palace but it is the perfect receiver for a dorm room or apartment. It has 30 Watts of (IHF) power and comes complete with all inputs and outputs plus a loudness switch, which allows you to enjoy two pairs of stereo speaker systems, individually or simultaneously. It also has a "mike mixing" feature which permits you to blend your own voice or instrumental accompaniment with sound from any other program source.

The BSR 310X turntable is as reliable a turntable as you'll find. It boasts the lowest percentage of returns in the industry.

Comes equipped with base, dustcover (notshown in photo) and Shure M75 cartridge.
The OMEGA 1 speaker system is a well designed hi-efficiency two-way speaker system. It'll remake that dorm or apartment into a theatre. See a Newtangler for a demonstration of this particular system and other Kenwood systems on special. He's better known as the "Stoned Ranger".

Somebody's Computer Misfired And Man's Number Was Really Up

By DON BEMAN
United Press International

In the age of computers and instant communications, you never know who's got your number and a 22-year-old Columbus man found out even a drivers license isn't sacred.

According to the State Motor Vehicles Department, Timothy O'Neill Benson didn't have a drivers license.

The record said it was suspended at least on paper because he was involved in an auto accident in San Diego, Calif., and neither he nor his family paid a $1307 judgment for a rear-end collision.

The accident, the court said, occurred on Oct. 9, 1967.

"But I've never been out of Nebraska going west," said Benson.

Further, school records from Spencer, his home town, showed he was around at the time.

Benson said about two years ago he received some threatening letters from a Sioux City, Iowa, collection agency, which was attempting to collect the judgment money.

The post office claimed there was no other person the letters could have been intended for even though they were addressed to a "Timothy Ray Benson."

"I wasn't really worried about it," Benson said. "I knew it wasn't me."

The matter was dropped, he said, about a year ago. But last week he attempted to get insurance on his mobile home.

Check Is Made

In hopes of selling him auto insurance as well, the firm ran a check through the State Motor Vehicles Department. A cog fell into place and the firm said they couldn't possibly give him insurance even if he asked them for it—he had a suspended license.

Benson said he decided right then something had to be done and he hired an attorney.

The state, meanwhile, also caught up with him because of the recent push initiated by

William Peterson, head of the Drivers Records Division, conceded things didn't quite fall into place.

Benson was born and raised in the Spencer area and his father's name is Hugh. His parents still live in Spencer and have been for some time.

According to the California court, a youngster with about the same name and the same date of birth—Feb. 16, 1950—drove the car involved in the accident. The car, in turn, was owned by a brother of the name of Robert Lee Benson. The parents of the two were Mr. and Mrs. Robert James Benson. All had Nebraska roots, the court said, and skipped to avoid the judgment.

No 'Robert'

Benson had two brothers and three sisters. None of his brothers have the name "Robert."

Peterson said since none of that matched there was no problem, except for one thing—the California court had Benson's correct driver's license number.

How they got the number, Peterson said, "we have no idea."

Benson, however, did.

"I think somebody just picked my name out of the hat and said 'he's the guy.'"

But overall, Peterson said, the evidence was overwhelming that there was some mistake and the records would be cleared.

"It's for doggone sure we don't want it on his record if it doesn't belong there," he said. "And I'm convinced now that we have no authority to put it (the accident) there."

Peterson also said that additional records have been located which indicate the Bensons mentioned in the California matter are in Nebraska—but that it definitely appeared there was no relation.

Benson said he was glad the matter was cleared up. But he confessed one thing still bothers him—he's going to have to pay an attorney at least for something not of his own making.

"When you get right down to it, I'm not going to get anything out of this," he said. "Not only that, but it really scares you to think of what could have happened had this gone any further."

Washington (UPI) — If a serviceman wounded in combat must lose his leg by amputation at the hip, he is rated 90% disabled and received $275 in monthly compensation.

But under a proposed revision of the degree of disability assigned to various losses, this serviceman's disability would be rated at only 10%. He would get only $195 — a loss of $169 per month.

Chairman William J. B. Dorn, D-S.C., of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, cited this as one of an array of downward revisions proposed in a report the Veterans Administration sent to the committee.

"I am shocked," Dorn said, after looking over the proposed revisions. He said the revisions will result in big income losses for hundreds of thousands of veterans.

Dorn said his committee is studying the proposed changes and if it finds them to be unfair, "they certainly appear to be" may try to block the changes by legislation.

Dorn cited a sampling of other proposed revisions of disability ratings and the dollar consequences: amputation at forearm, now 80%, revised to 40%; a $139 monthly loss; amputation of foot, 40% to 30%; $29 monthly loss.

Reynolds pleaded guilty to the Jan. 1 murder of Lydia Sharon Red Owl, 23, Sioux City, and was found guilty Thursday of second degree

NU Student Group Seeks OK Of On-Campus Alcohol

By S. M. SCHAFER
Star Staff Writer

The NU Council on Student Life (CSL) gave unanimous approval Thursday night to a report favoring the consumption and possession of alcohol for on-campus housing.

The proposal will be sent to the Board of Regents for approval March 3. The report had been prepared by a joint committee of the Associated Students of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and the Residence Hall Association.

If accepted by the Regents, the policy suggested by the report would allow the consumption and possession of legal alcohol in students rooms in on-campus housing. On-campus housing refers to residence hall floors, fraternities, sororities and cooperatives.

Nebraska statutes allow for consumption of alcoholic beverages on state property if authorized by the governing bodies having jurisdiction.

The policy also states that consumption would be allowed in floor lounges "for special occasions."

Special occasions are defined by the report as an event previously planned by members of the living unit, approved by 85% of the total members and approved and registered with the appropriate authority, the Residence directors or housing coordinators.

"I feel we are in an era of student responsibility. At 19 they are considered adults. We ought to give this responsibility to people living in the dorms," said Dr. Kenneth Swerdlow, Assistant Director of Housing Program and Administration.

Swerdlow said he saw no great problem in allowing alcohol consumption in campus housing. He emphasized that students must receive registered approval for each occasion and that it gave no blanket approval to consumption in open areas.

The policy suggested by the report does not apply to the Nebraska Union or to the sale

Dean Donald Shaneyfelt, chairman of CSL, expressed concern over public opinion.

"There may be a public outcry in regards to this report. Those who are not closely associated with the university are not aware of the responsibilities students have assumed," he said.

Shaneyfelt suggested that the students involved in developing the proposal also work toward educating the public about the proposed policy.

CSL also endorsed the recommendation of the extension of guest hours in the residence halls.

The recommendation submitted by a sub-committee of the Residence Hall Association requests a two-hour extension on weekdays and a six-hour extension of guest hours on weekends.

Swerdlow termed the proposed policy "realistic and workable." Residence Hall policy now allows for six hours of visitation a day.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR
Forecast For Friday

The Gemini man's restless has great sense of humor. He's the one who will run! If you know of anyone who needs home furnishings... tell them to run! But whatever you do, don't miss WANEK'S Saturday, the 10th, 13-hour sale. You will save as you never dreamed possible. Every inch of our huge warehouse and stock was searched... every corner scrutinized for odds and ends... merchandise in our stocks a little too long. Our aim... to make room for beautiful new things on the way. A few dollars in our bank account working for us buying new merchandise, is far better than many dollars tied up in precious merchandise unsold. So look at these values, then come in and take advantage of these lucky 13 hour bargains. Many one-of-a-kind items in this special sale, so shop early for best selection. The doors subopen at 8 A.M. All items subject to prior sale. Sorry, no C.O.D. or phone orders. IMPORTANT!! All merchandise tagged for sale is sold as sampled. Pay no money down, with low monthly payments on WANEK'S easy terms.

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19): Financial status improves. You get what you want. Investigate. Don't be satisfied merely that something happened. Find out why it occurred. Ask questions. Dig for information. Gemini-Virgo persons could be featured.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Lunar cycle is high. Take initiative. Your judgment intuition are apt to be on target. Lead the way. Make new contacts. Bring forth creative resources. Emphasize appearance, personality. Wear bright colors. Shake off lethargy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Action occurs, both on scenes. Be discreet. Clansmen meeting could be featured. Don't tell all. Keep something in reserve. One you deal with is being less than can do. Subtle approach should be advocated.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Accent is on friends, hopes, special desires. Reward through occupational efforts is indicated. What you did in past will be appreciated. Check investments. You have something coming to you—be aware, alert enough to protect interests.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Obstacle should be regarded as constructive challenge. Refuse to be discouraged by temporary setback. Keep sights set on ultimate goal. Professional superior is impressed. You will soon be rid of burden.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Look to future instead of worrying about past. Good lunar aspect now coincides with long range planning, travel, publishing, spreading of information. Gain shown through written word. Leo is involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Build for future. Get agreement in writing. Take cash and let credit go. Insist on factual information. Discuss legal procedure with mate, business partner. You unearth fact for which had been obscured. Aquarian is in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Lie low. Don't force issues. Your judgment may be off center. Permit mate, partner to lead way. Time is in your corner. Don't feel you must make immediate decision. Wait and learn, absorb knowledge.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Check details. Take nothing for granted. One who seems progressive may merely be foolish. Key does is to be discriminating. Guard health. Maintain balance. Avoid extremes. Be aware of diet resolutions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Good lunar aspect now coincides with romance, creative changes, special relationships with children. Give of yourself. Emphasize individuality. Member of opposite sex plays important role. Your personal magnetism soars.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accent on home, family, the end of a project. Key now is to utilize experience. Draw to your family resources. Make, conserve every gesture. Know what is important, what merely glitters. Message will become increasingly clear.

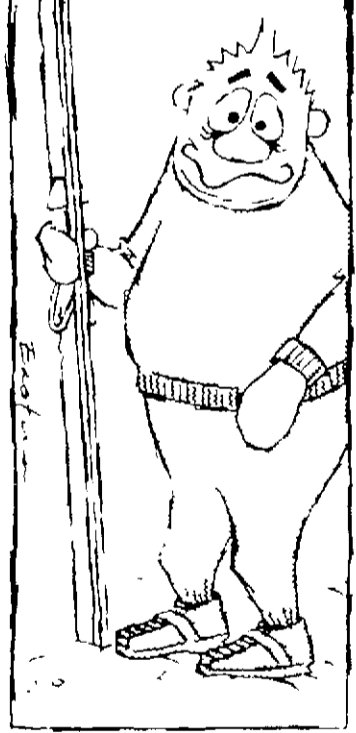

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Study Aquarius message. Avoid jumping to conclusions. Perfect techniques. Tendency is to try doing too much at once. Ideas a chance to develop. Short journey, visits and visitors are featured. Be kind to talkative relative.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have sense of what people want, what they will respond to—and you are capable of giving it to them. April is indicated as your most significant month in 1973. You have an affinity for those born under Aries. You are inventive, creative and stubborn.

Teamsters Ask Union Election In Columbus

The Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations Thursday was asked to order a secret election among the city employees of Columbus to determine whether the workers want to be represented by the Teamsters Union.

The request for the election was made to the court by Teamsters Local 694, which contended in the suit that it has been turned down by the city on a request to be permitted to represent the employees for collective bargaining purposes.

A secret ballot election would be the best way to determine the question, said the suit.

The request for the election was signed by 30% of the city workers the suit claimed.

Finance Committee Of Regents To Meet

The Finance Committee of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska will meet Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the Grand Island Room of the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, Lincoln.

U.S. Appeal Rejected On Olympic Cage Loss

... REVERSAL OF OUTCOME TURNED DOWN

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The executive board of the International Olympic Committee has rejected a personal appeal by the United States to reverse the result of the controversial Olympic basketball title game at Munich last September in which the Soviet Union defeated the United States 51-50.

Clifford H. Buck of Denver, outgoing president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said today he submitted 20 pages of documents in three languages — Spanish, French and English — to the nine-man IOC board and appeared before the body for two hours Feb. 5 to plead the American case.

The IOC executive board studied the matter at great length and then told me that it had no jurisdiction because it was a technical matter," Buck said. "My argument was that it was strictly an ethical and moral question."

"The executive board advised that we pursue our case with the International Basketball Federation (FIBA) if we so chose. I am not optimistic but we do not intend to drop it and forget it."

In the wild game on the night of Sept. 10, the United States apparently won the game in the fading seconds by a score of 50-49 but Russians, on direction of the secretary general of FIBA, R. William Jones, were allowed three additional chances to throw the ball into play with only three seconds left. On the final throw, the Russians scored for a 51-50 victory—the only time in history that the United States had lost an Olympic basketball game.

"Attorneys tell us that we have a strong case and it could be taken into the international courts of law," Buck said at an informal news briefing today. "But such courts are so complicated I am not sure it would do any good to carry the case to that arena."

He said that he hoped that American chagrin over such treatment, which he called illegal and improper, would generate enough momentum that it would pose a threat of a United States ban of future FIBA and Olympic basketball tournaments.

"This is only my opinion — not the opinion of our other committee members who think we should not walk out," the USOC president said.

Vanderbilt Accepts Stapleton

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Florida State Athletic Director Clay Stapleton Thursday was named to a similar post with Vanderbilt University.

Stapleton will succeed Bill Pace, who held the dual role of athletic director and head football coach. Pace resigned Jan. 15 after compiling a record of 22-38-3 over six years and only one winning season, a 5-4-1 mark in 1969.

Chancellor Alexander Heard made the announcement for Vanderbilt. No salary was disclosed.

"This opportunity to come to Vanderbilt is one of the most exciting things in my life," Stapleton said.

"I couldn't possibly be more enthused joining a university of Vanderbilt's stature academically and its great athletic tradition."

"Too, for me it's wonderful to return to the Southeastern Conference—after 25 years. I look forward eagerly to my relationship with old friends and the pleasure of making new friends," Stapleton said.

Stapleton, 51, who played football at the University of Tennessee, will sign a five-year contract with Vanderbilt which has been plagued with a less than mediocre record for the past 10 years.

NU Matmen Set To Host Missourians

Their hopes for a fourth straight winning dual season shattered by losses at Missouri (18-17) and Southern Illinois (21-13) last weekend, coach Orval Borgioli's Nebraska wrestling team will try to save some face when it hosts Northwest Missouri in the Coliseum Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

The Huskers needed to sweep their last four matches to finish above .500 for 1972-73, but the two weekend losses dropped the season mark to .3-8 with two matches left before the Big Eight meet at Missouri.

The 1972-73 season has been a long one for Borgioli, and for him the loss to Missouri summed up the frustration he's had in a year which he's never had his best lineup together at one time because of either injuries or illnesses.

In one match, he had two starters out, in six matches, he had three starters gone, and in four more, four were out of the lineup.

Against Missouri, the Huskers held a 15-7 lead with three matches to go and the chances for a win looked good when freshman Bob Johnson had apparent control of his 177-pound match. However, he was taken down with 12 seconds to go and had to settle for a draw which made the team score 17-9.

The Huskers apparently had the match under their belts at 190 pounds when John Bell held a 10-5 lead with less than a minute left, then lost, 13-11.

That match cut the Huskers' lead to 17-12 going into the heavyweight match, but NU's Jeff Class had a 7-2 lead with 1:20 left. However, Mizzou's Tom Cook gained a reversal to cut the margin to 7-4, then pinned Class with 36 seconds left and the Tigers had an 18-17 dual win.

"I've never known frustration like that before in my life," Borgioli said. "It was just one of those things where we had complete control of the match and blew it. The fans loved it, but it's sure tough on coaches—at least one of them anyway."

"I know I've got the best kids I've ever had," Borgioli continued. "I just can't get them together as a team. The kids really don't have a defeatist attitude, even with all the losses, they honestly feel they can finish third in the Big Eight."

Cox, Bluman Top Husker Shooters

Nebraska's junior varsity basketball team is paced by five shooters hitting double scoring figures going into Thursday's game at Platte Junior College.

Larry Cox leads with an 18.8 points-per-game mark while Alan Bluman (17.5), Jud Martin (16.0), Rex Mellenkamp (14.3) and Will Hudson (11.0) are also sporting double figure averages.

Iowa Schedules All-Star Contests

Des Moines, Iowa — The four Shrine temples in Iowa announced Thursday they will sponsor annual all-star basketball and football games for the first time next August.

The basketball game will be played on a Friday evening and the football game the following afternoon.

The announcement said the Shrine has been trying to receive approval for an all-star game in the state since 1959.

It said Iowa's application this year was the only one approved by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which received 75 applications.

All net proceeds from the games will be given to shrine crippled children's hospitals and burn treatment centers in the United States and Canada.

The state will be divided north and south by U.S. 30, with one team chosen north of the highway, the other south of it.

Husker Gymnasts Host Kansas State In Dual

After nearly two-and-a-half months on the road, coach Francis of Allen's Nebraska gymnastics team finally gets a chance to compete at home by hosting Kansas State at Henslik Hall (Formerly University High School) gymnasium on the NU campus Saturday at 2 p.m.

The Huskers and Wildcats were very evenly matched last year when K-State edged NU in a dual at Manhattan, 146.95-144.65, and in the Big Eight meet where the Wildcats edged the Huskers, 293.20-292.40, for third place.

This year, Allen thinks Nebraska can turn the tables.

"Kansas State has a good all-around team," Allen said. "They'll compete with my best guys, but I think our team depth will be enough to beat them."

New K-State coach Ken Snow has four gymnasts back who finished in the top six in last year's Big Eight meet, including one, Tom Yother on the horizontal (high) bar, who qualified for the NCAA meet.

Yother finished second on the high bar behind NU's Hoppy Batten which sets up quite a rivalry on that apparatus Saturday afternoon.

Other top K-State returnees include Mike Thomas, fourth in all-around competition and sixth in floor exercise, Larry Estes, fifth on pommel horse, and Jerry Simmons, fifth on still rings.

NU Tankers Host ISU

Sporting a 1-2 dual record, coach John Reta's Nebraska swimming team ends its home season Saturday at 2 p.m. with a dual against Iowa State in the Coliseum pool.

Last year, the Cyclones took a 70-42 win over the Huskers at Ames and Reta says he expects them to be just as tough this year. "Iowa State has excellent depth and balance and they've got a strong man in each event," Reta said.

"They're sharp in the freestyle events with distance freestyler Tom Marantz and middle distance freestyler Rick Burnett," Reta continued. "Eric Haapaniemi is an excellent medley man and Jim Beil is strong in the butterfly. All they have in the diving events is Steve Spikes, the defending Big Eight champion on both the one and three-meter boards."

Reta said freestyler Spencer Luedke performed well despite a bout with the flu last week. He also pointed to freshman Stu Waterbury who had a career-best .227 in the 50-yard freestyle against Northern Iowa.

Door Is Opened For Girl

BLAIDOL GLASS STANGELIN
LAWTON, Okla. (UPI)— School administrators who once shut out pregnant girls on the back door are opening the front door these days—and providing mothers-to-be needed information on prenatal care and birth control.

A three-month-old program in Lawton, Okla. is a cooperative venture between the state health department and the Lawton School District to educate the family planning and educational needs of pregnant teenagers, wed and unwed.

"Our purpose is to force reality on pregnant teenagers—and how to take care of their body," said Karen Graham, social worker with Comanche County's family planning project.

"Most of the girls lack self-identity," Mrs. Graham said.
She said most of the girls have been sexually active because of peer group pressure, or as a means of escape or rebellion.
The voluntary program handles 30 to 40 girls, mostly junior high and high school students 16 and 17 years old, and attempts to offer the girls needed adjustment to having a baby.

"Some of the girls sort of consider a baby like a doll that they can put up when they're through playing with it," she said.

The girls are encouraged to enter the program, which is offered at a large elementary school, after they become uncomfortable in their regular school. That is usually in their seventh month of pregnancy.
The program is handled in two phases, with the girls attending weekly sessions until their latter stages of pregnancy—then they switch over to four classes of three hours each.

"The girls are taught pre- and post-natal care, personal hygiene, child development, birth control, decision-making,
and the problems and promises of a young marriage.

Home Economics teacher Mrs. Jan Hoover said the girl in the family program is entirely different than she would be in a regular school environment.
"We don't have any problems like discipline, the girls are interested in learning about themselves," Mrs.
Hoover said.

"The situation is not ideal, but it certainly is better than the one before," she said. Prior to the program, girls often were pressured into dropping out of school for a tutoring program at home.

Mrs. Hoover called the program successful, largely because it helped eliminate a feeling of rejection, and added to the girls' education.

"The program's been quite successful, particularly in informing girls about what is happening to themselves right now, how to take care of themselves, and to get back into school when it's all over," she said.

Thompson Named Assistant Director Of FBI

Omaha — Fletcher D. Thompson was named an assistant director of the FBI Thursday. Thompson, 51, will take charge of the Bureau's identification division — the same division in which he began his career as a clerk 32 years ago.

Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray informed Thompson of his appointment by phone Thursday.

Thompson said he would assume his new job March 1. He will be one of the Bureau's 11 assistant directors.

"Of course it means something special to me," Thompson said. "Since I started in that division as clerk in 1941, Thompson was still a college student in those days, and the Bureau paid him a little over $1,000 annually. Since August, 1971, Thompson has been special agent in charge of the Omaha office, which has responsibility for Nebraska and Iowa.

Fletcher D. Thompson

Thompson joined the FBI in a clerical capacity at the identification division in 1941.

He attended George Washington University and holds a law degree from University of Toledo.

He became a special agent in January 1944. He entered the Marine Corps that same year, returning to FBI duty in January 1946.

He served in FBI offices in Washington, Cleveland and Toledo, Ohio, and Savannah, Ga.

In 1961 he became a member of the late J. Edgar Hoover's staff, working as supervisor of major criminal investigations and concentrating on kidnaping and bank robberies.

In 1969 he was named assistant special agent in charge of the Mobile, Ala., office. He returned to Washington with the rank of inspector in 1970.

He served in that capacity until his appointment to the Omaha post.

He replaces Asst. Director Joseph D. Purvis, who will retire effective March 6.

Thompson was born Aug. 11, 1921, in Spotsylvania County, Va.

He is married and has four children.

BN To Buy 1,000 Jumbo Hopper Cars

St. Paul, Minn. (AP) — Burlington Northern Inc. announced Thursday that it will purchase 1,000 jumbo covered hopper railroad freight cars for $18 million to cope with unprecedented demand for U. S. grain abroad.

President Robert Downing said the 100-ton cars, each with a capacity of 3,300 bushels, should be in service for the summer harvest.

The demand for U. S. grain in Russia and other foreign markets, along with President Nixon's recent removal of acreage restrictions, were reasons cited for the purchase. Downing said he anticipates an increased requirement for cars in the last half of 1973.

Burlington Northern has 31,000 narrow-door box cars and 7,100 jumbo covered hoppers in service for shipping grain, and is utilizing several thousand cars of other types to meet current demand.

Downing said there was no precedent for the present situation. He said that one year ago Burlington Northern had as many as 8,000 grain cars standing idle.

In contrast, he said, nearly 87,000 bushels of grain were loaded last month—more than twice the volume of January, 1972.

The 1,000-car purchase will boost Burlington Northern's capital outlay for equipment in 1973 to $89.6 million, and total capital expenditures for the year to $153 million.

Troubled GIs Dial KICK

Frankfurt, Germany (AP) — "Hey, man, you gotta help me. I'm loaded with booze and dowers and I'm in bad trouble."

The man listening to the telephone call was calm.

"Take it easy," he said. "We're here to help and we'll do what we can."

It was another call to Dial KICK, an effort by the U.S. Army's 5th Corps to combat an epidemic of drug abuse in the European command. Around the clock, a soldier can get information by dialing KICK — the letters corresponding to the numbers 5425 — on a military phone. In emergencies, medical treatment is arranged.

"We don't ask for names, we don't ask for units," said Spec 5 Robert Finch, one of the counselors. "But if someone is a danger to himself or someone else, usually he will volunteer his name or where he is." Critics contend that not all counselors are adequately trained. The counselors themselves are distressed when troops fail to respond.

Abuse Prevailed
Finch, who is 26 and a draftee from the Virgin Islands, estimates that drug abuse by soldiers is at least as prevalent now as it was 17 months ago when he joined Dial KICK.

Sure, heroin use by GIs fluctuates, he said. "But we still get the same questions — 'What happens if I shoot up?' or 'Is it bad for my genes if I drop LSD?'"

Finch flipped through a ledger, where dates and dispositions of all calls are noted as a reference for future counseling. One of his own entries read:

"An enlisted man called saying he was strung out on heroin. He stated he was maintaining. I referred him to the dispensary for medical aid." The heroin user took the advice and sought treatment. "I know because I checked back with the man," Finch says.

Army figures show that counselors have answered more than 1,000 queries in 18 months. Initially all calls went to the Frankfurt office at the 3rd Armored Division headquarters dispensary. Later phones were installed at 15 other drug information centers.

"Get Few Calls"
"We get very few calls in Frankfurt now — six or seven in a good week," reported Pfc. Richard Heller. "That's not very many considering there are 6,000 GIs in Frankfurt."

Heller, from San Antonio, Tex., is a 23-year-old psychology graduate of Southwest Texas State University. He's been a counselor six months.

"Boredom and apathy are a way of life for GIs in West Germany," he observed. "Drugs are an easy way to make the time go faster."

Soldiers' wives sometimes ask advice
Women usually call in to inquire about meetings of Alcoholics Anonymous, apparently for their husbands," reported Pfc. Kent Boberg, 24, of Cambridge, Ill.

Many Reluctant
Many of the callers Boberg has advised are reluctant to admit any direct experience with drugs. About half the calls began "I know somebody who is taking."

Hashish, a cannabis with more potency than marijuana, appears to be the thing most asked about.

"Marijuana is rarely found here and soldiers often ask if hashish, which is very common, is addictive," Heller said. "We say that a psychological dependence can develop but there is no physical addiction, as with opiates."

The log book notes a teen-age girl who wanted to persuade her boyfriend to give up hashish.

"Avoid nagging him," was the advice. "Encourage him to get involved in sports." A soldier was told, "Most German LSD is cut with speed and strychnine. It can cause bad trips."

Counseling Difficult
Boberg, a psychology graduate of Bradley University, observed that drug counseling by telephone can be difficult.

"There is a big factor of experience in any type of counseling. We learn the big signs to listen for, the tell-tale signs and general symptoms of drug abuse. This requires training sessions with Army physicians."

Maj. Christopher Robbins, 5th Corps drug control officer, views the project as an effective part of the Army's amnesty program for drug users.

Perky's Tower Lonely

Perky, Fla. (UPI)—Standing on this tropical island like an incongruous Dutch windmill without its blades is a weatherbeaten monument to man's fight against the mosquito—Mr. Perky's bat tower.

An inscription scratched in concrete says: "Dedicated to good health at Perky, Fla., by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Perky, March 15, 1929."

Righter Clyde Perky was a big and energetic land merchant, attired in white English linen suits tailored for him in Cuba, jovial and well-liked. He came from Denver, fell in love with the Florida Keys and visioned a prosperous future for the sun-bathed islands.

But Perky had a faulty heart. He died in 1940 at the age of 62 when he went to his mother's funeral in Miami, 30 years before his vision came true.

In 1929, though, black swarms of mosquitoes and salt marsh sand flies clouded Perky's horizons. But, he had heard, could devour mosquitoes at a prodigious rate, and he was determined to make a home for them.

"People don't know today what mosquitoes are," said Fred Johnson of Key West, the man who built Mr. Perky's bat tower. "In those days, we didn't have any insecticides, spray planes or foggers."

"On Perky Key, the mosquitoes were so thick in the evening, they would form a black print of your hand when you put it against a window screen," Johnson said. "They'd suck your blood right through the screen."

"About the only thing I could do was drain a few ponds and dip a sponge soaked with oil into others," he added. "At night, you had to stay indoors."

Even that, many times, would not save residents from the sand flies, the size of tiny gnats.

"Drive You Crazy"
"They'd crawl into your scalp and ears and drive you crazy," said Johnson's wife. "We'd burn smudge pots and shampoo the kids' hair in the middle of the night."

Although the Monroe County Commissioners laughed about the idea, the folks on Perky Key, running an ill-fated gamble on a sponge farm which Perky hoped would tide him through the Depression, a tower — which the bats could call home — was worth trying.

"I'd seen a bat wipe clean with one swoop a screen covered with mosquitoes," Johnson said. "And we had bats in the Keys."

"A fellow from Homestead named Due Gomers used to travel up and down the Keys repairing the one telephone line we had. It was put in by the Coast Guard to connect the lighthouses," Johnson recalled.

Campbell sought
Perky had heard of the bat towers in Texas. A Dr. Campbell had designed them and written a book entitled "Mosquitoes, Bats and Dollars."

Johnson said Perky commissioned a close friend, Steve Singleton, to travel to Texas to investigate. He was shown seven bat towers in the vicinity of San Antonio. Singleton brought their design back to Perky who directed Johnson, his building superintendent, to construct one.

"The deal was that Dr. Campbell, I don't remember his first name, gave you the blueprints free," Johnson said. "Then after you built the tower, he supplied a special box to lure the bats to the tower."

"It was an elaborate design. It cost close to $100 to build that thing. That was a lot of money in those days," Johnson said.

"It was 20 feet high with express hinges on the side. I don't like paint. We sent all the way to Miami to get 12-by-12 of Dade County pine for the corner posts. The wood was so hard you can't hardly drive a nail in it."

15 Feet Square
It's about 15 feet square at the bottom, anchored in concrete. There are louvered openings running up one side to let the bats in and out.

"Inside, we nailed up thousands of crawfish trap laths horizontally, four inches apart, for the bats to hang on."

"Campbell thought of everything. There was a chute to collect the bat guano — the insect fertilizer you can get — with a hopper and trap door to collect it in sacks underneath the tower."

Makarios Re-Elected In Cyprus

Nicosia, Cyprus (AP) — Archbishop Makarios was proclaimed re-elected Thursday to a third five-year term as president of Cyprus.

In a speech to roaring thousands of his supporters, the black-robed archbishop denounced the forces of his rival, Gen. George Grivas, for their terrorist tactics and chided them for not contesting the election.

The throng jamming the square, streets, rooftops and balconies surrounding Makarios' palace was estimated at 150,000 to 200,000, which is 30% to 40% of the Greek Cypriot population. About a fifth of Cyprus' population is of Turkish origin.

Visibly moved by the massive turnout, Makarios declared: "The people speak today. They condemn violence and terrorism. They condemn unlawful armed men, bomb throwers, these unconscious working for a fratricidal disaster."

ORDINANCE NO. 10480
AN ORDINANCE amending chapter 9.52 of the Lincoln Municipal Code to provide new regulations prohibiting the dissemination of obscene material and pandering obscene material, and repealing Sections 9.52.130, 9.52.140 and 9.52.150 of the Lincoln Municipal Code as hitherto existing.

BE IT ORDAINED by the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska:

Section 1 That Chapter 9.52 of the Lincoln Municipal Code be and it hereby is amended by the addition of a new section to be numbered Section 9.52.131 to read as follows:

9.52.131 Dissemination of obscene material: definitions. As used in Section 9.52.132:

(1) "Obscene" The standard for judging obscenity to be applied by finders of fact in considering the evidence is whether to the average person, applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of such material or performance, taken as a whole, appeals to the prurient interest, which is to excite lustful thoughts, or a shameful or morbid interest in nudity, sex, excretion, sadism or masochism, which goes substantially beyond the customary limits of candor in the description or representation of such matter and is utterly without redeeming social value.

(2) "Disseminate" means to exhibit, distribute, give, lend, transfer, publish, circulate, sell, advertise, or deliver to another, or to offer or agree to do the same.

(3) "Material" shall mean any book, magazine, pamphlet, paper, writing, drawing, engraving, sculpture, model, instrument, picture, photograph, motion picture, record, recording, play, act, or exhibition.

(4) "Knowingly" means having a general knowledge of, or reason to know, or a belief or ground for belief which warrants further investigation or inquiry concerning the character and content of any material or performance which is reasonably susceptible of examination by the defendant.

(5) "Performance" means any show, act, play, motion picture or other exhibition shown to or performed before a minor.

Section 2 That Chapter 9.52 of the Lincoln Municipal Code be and it hereby is amended by the addition of a new section to be numbered Section 9.52.132 to read as follows:

9.52.132 Dissemination of obscene material. Whoever knowingly disseminates, causes to be disseminated, or possesses with intent to disseminate, any obscene material, or who knowingly produces, directs or performs in any obscene performance or any portion of such performance which contributes to the obscenity of the performance as a whole shall be guilty of disseminating obscene material, provided, that no motion picture machine operator shall be held criminally liable for exhibiting or possessing with the intent to exhibit any obscene film if the operator is under the direct supervision of a theater manager and such operator has no financial interest in the entertainment presented other than his wages or salary; and provided further, that no stage hand, cashier, doorman, usher, concession employee or other theater employee having no financial interest in the theater shall be subject to prosecution under this section.

Section 3 That Chapter 9.52 of the Lincoln Municipal Code be and it hereby is amended by the addition of a new section to be numbered Section 9.52.133 to read as follows:

9.52.133 Disseminating obscene material to minor: definitions. As used in Section 9.52.136:

(1) "Obscene" The standard for judging obscenity to be applied as a guide by finders of fact in considering the evidence is whether to the average person, applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of such material or performance, taken as a whole, appeals to the prurient interest, which is to excite lustful thoughts, or a shameful or morbid interest in nudity, sex, excretion, sadism or masochism which goes substantially beyond the customary limits of candor or recognized in the adult community with respect to what is suitable for minors and is utterly without redeeming social value for minors.

(2) "Disseminate" means to exhibit, distribute, give, lend, transfer, publish, circulate, sell, advertise, or deliver to a minor or to offer or agree to do the same.

(3) "Material" shall mean any book, magazine, pamphlet, paper, writing, drawing, engraving, sculpture, model, instrument, picture, photograph, motion picture, record, recording, play, act, or exhibition.

(4) "Knowingly" means having general knowledge of, or reason to know, or a belief or ground for belief which warrants further investigation or inquiry concerning the character and content of any material or performance which is reasonably susceptible of examination by the defendant.

(5) "Performance" means any show, act, play, motion picture or other exhibition shown to or performed before a minor.

Section 4 That Chapter 9.52 of the Lincoln Municipal Code be and it hereby is amended by the addition of a new section to be numbered Section 9.52.136 to read as follows:

9.52.136 Disseminating obscene material to a minor. Whoever knowingly disseminates, causes to be disseminated, or possesses with intent to disseminate, any obscene material, or who knowingly produces, directs or performs in any obscene performance or any portion of such performance which contributes to the obscenity of the performance as a whole shall be guilty of disseminating obscene material to a minor.

Section 5 That Chapter 9.52 of the Lincoln Municipal Code be and it hereby is amended by the addition of a new section to be numbered Section 9.52.139 to read as follows:

Senate OKs Humphrey Native To Head USIA

Washington (AP) — The Senate Thursday confirmed the nomination of James Keogh of Greenwich, Conn., to be director of the U.S. Information Agency.

Keogh, newsman and author, was chief of the White House research and writing staff in 1969 and 1970. He succeeds Frank J. Shakespeare Jr.

Keogh is a native of Humphrey, Neb., and a former city editor for the Omaha World-Herald.

He was associated with Time magazine for many years, and was executive editor when he left the publication.

He is the author of two books on President Nixon.

Keogh was among the newsmen who covered Nixon's trip to Peking.

The Senate also confirmed the appointment of Thomas F. McCormick of Connecticut to be public printer succeeding the late Adolphus Nichols Spence.

James Keogh

Newsman, Author

In addition the Senate confirmed these ambassador appointments:

Daniel P. Moynihan to India, Richard Helms to Iran, Richard T. Davies to Poland, Cleo A. Neal Jr. to the Sudan, and Melvin L. Manfull to Liberia.

Three R's 'Hack Work'

London (AP) — Sir Alec Clegg, a Yorkshire education officer, says in a new book that the teaching of reading, writing and arithmetic is the "hack work of education" and gradually will be taken over by teaching machines.

Bank Reluctant To Hold Rate

New York (UPI) — The huge First National City Bank announced Thursday it would reluctantly suspend its floating prime interest rate formula and keep the rate at 6 1/2%.

This action is the direct result of government pressure, in effect, a bank spokesman said. The base rate, which previously was determined by the free market, is now being administered by federal authorities.

POSTCARD

Stan
Delaplane

Up with the rosy dawn. "Six hours sleep is enough." So said the Regimental Quartermaster in the year 1275. What did people do in those hardy days? No late show to sit up and watch. No martini lunches to fog the day—they drank mead.

Some talk in the papers that the stadium hot dog—the indigestible frankfurter, smothered in mustard on a cold, stale bun—will be improved this year.

"The customer is entitled to something better," says the news release. (There is a press agent who can walk on water. What dedication!)

Too early for the outdoor barbecue, but I do hot dogs for the moppets on weekends.

Children will eat anything, thank goodness. Anyway, my hot dogs come hot. You can say that. The stadium hot dog is a cool customer.

Looked up my hot dog file. ("That boy was not behind the door when the brains were passed out," said grandma. "Hope he don't wind up a drummer." A "drummer" was a salesman on the road. Grandma said they drank.)

About hot dogs: "It was at the St. Louis Louisiana Exposition in 1904 that the hot dog was invented. A concessionaire loaned white gloves to his patrons so their hands wouldn't be burned by the piping hot wieners.

"He found many people didn't return the gloves. So he turned to his brother, a baker, and had a bun made to fit the sausage. Thus the hot dog was born."

I don't believe a word of it.

While the hot dogs are cooking, the day is burning. I said: "Set the table. Put on the mustard and ketchup."

Crash! "Sorry," he said. I picked the glass out of the ketchup. He said: "It slipped." I mopped the floor.

The girl child said: "The buns are burning!"

So they are. I said: Everybody let me alone until I get things ready! I'm going out of my mind!

The girl child said: "Why don't we have mustard relish? Like they do at ball games."

I sat down and began to cry. I said: "Fetch your poor old father the cooking sherry."

The weekend cook is a sorry fellow. The younger boy had a friend in for lunch.

He said: "I don't like hot dogs."

I said: "Oui, m'sieu. What do you like?"

He said: "I like hamburger."

I said: "The hamburger is 86. Out. How about tuna?"

He said: "What kind of tuna?"

I said: "Canned. Bumble Bee."

He said: "Don't you have Starkist?"

Irving Hoffman, the Broadway press agent, did public relations for hot dogs at Coney Island. His letterhead said: "When a man bites a dog, that's news."

He had a great friendship with Walter Winchell. In Winchell's column, the biggest Broadway stars ate Coney Island hot dogs.

Franklin D. Roosevelt served them to the visiting King and Queen of England. "Genuine Coney Island redhots," said FDR and then mopped up the New York vote.

I served the hot dogs. I had a nip at the sherry. I went to the table. I said: "Where's my hot dog?"

They said: "We were hungry. We ate it. There's some Sugar Drops in the cupboard. Can we watch TV now?"
